CHARLES BROWN and CO., Lyons-buildings, George-street.

TO GENTLEMEN leaving the Colony and Parties wishing to DISPOSE of their HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE and EFFECTS.—The undersigned, having been for many years practically acquainted with AUCTIONEERING in all its branches, undertake sales of household furniture, plate, glassware, books, carriages, horses, &c., and advance (when required) the probable amount the same will realise, without any extra charge for so doing, thus enabling gentlemen to occupy their houses until the day of their departure, the auctioneers placing any surplus in the hands of their agents.
Having been favoured with many important sales from influential gentlemen, we have received many flattering testimonials from them expressing their entire satisfaction at sales thus effected; and from the very liberal support which we have undoubtedly received, we trust that the public have appreciated our endeavours to obtain the best prices possible for goods entrusted to us for sale.

His Excellency's Commissioners for the Exhibition of 1862 have made arrangements whereby articles intended for exposition may be received up to the 16th SEPTEMBER, 1861.
The Commissioners cannot ensure to articles transmitted after that date so favourable a position as to goods previously forwarded, inasmuch as the best places will most probably have been already assigned to early exhibitors.
All articles forwarded should be addressed to "The Commissioners for the Exhibition of 1862," Pitt-street North, Sydney. By order, SEDGWICK S. COWPER, secretary.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THE WEATHER?

The weather is such that we scarcely know what
To say with regard to the weather;
Sometimes wet, sometimes fine, sometimes gloom, sometimes shine,
But never long one sort of weather.

In the morning the sun may be shining as bright
As a pair of new boots (patent leather);
You smile with delight—alas, though ere night
You find there's a change in the weather.

For clothing in weather like this you should go,
To get cheapness and goodness together,
The best thing to do, go to COHEN'S and CO.,
And they'll suit you for all kinds of weather.

So now, one word more, rich and poor, great and small,
(For I've got to the end of my tether),
Just give them a call at the famed Monster Hall,
And you won't care a flirt for the weather.

Note the address,

To STOREKEEPERS, SHIPPERS, and RESIDENTS IN THE INTERIOR.

HOWARD'S PLOUGHS.—JAMES and FREDERICK HOWARD, Britannia Iron Works, Bedford, England, have received from the Royal Agricultural Society of England more first prizes for ploughs, harrows, and horse rakes, than any other maker. Their champion ploughs are now made almost entirely of wrought iron. In this, as well as other respects, they are therefore thoroughly adapted for colonial purposes, and are constructed so as to require but little space in packing. Many thousands of their implements are exported every year to all parts of the world; the requirements of the different colonies are consequently well understood. JAMES and FREDERICK HOWARD are not only the largest manufacturers in the world, of ploughs, but also of iron harrows, horse rakes, and steam ploughs or cultivators. Illustrated catalogues of the above, and further information can be obtained on application to SHIPS' MAILS.

Mails will close at the General Post Office as follows:—

For Otago.—By the Comet, this day, at noon, if not underway.

For Wellington and Port Cooper.—By the Dart, this day, at noon.

For Mauritius.—By the Mary Agnes, this day, at 6 p.m.

For London.—By the Cairngorm, this day, at 6 p.m.

For Auckland.—By the Salcombe Castle, this day, at 6 p.m.

For Melbourne.—By the Wonga Wonga (s.), on Tuesday, at 2.30 p.m.

Custom House.—Entered Outwards, August 30: R. M. S. S. Salsette, 965 tons, Captain Rogers, for Point de Galle.

The s. s. Yarra Yarra left Brisbane on the 28th instant, at 11 o'clock a.m., and Cape Moreton at 6 o'clock p.m. same day, and arrived at Sydney Heads on the 30th, at 8 o'clock p.m. She had strong E.N.E. and N. winds, with incessant heavy rain, to Seal Rock, and from thence moderate variable winds and fine weather; passed the steamers Waratah and Grafton, on the 30th instant, at 10 o'clock a.m., off Port Stephens.

The Fortune left Auckland on the 18th instant, bringing ten days' later intelligence, Captain Walsh having favoured us with files to that date. The early part of the passage she had very light winds, and strong N.E. weather the latter part. The Albatross, and Zillah, schooners, sailed on the 15th instant—full complements of passengers and cargo. The Broadwater, for Newcastle, and Henry Fernie, for Calcutta, were ready for sea. H.M.S. Harrier was lying at Auckland on the 18th instant. The passengers by the Fortune have presented Captain Walsh with a testimonial, expressive of their appreciation of his kindness and unvarying attention to their comfort during the passage.

The Ben Bolt.—A letter from Captain Smith, overland to Rockhampton, was received by Messrs. Hutchinson and Hunter, stating that the ketch, after being twenty-three days at sea, was compelled, through scarcity of provisions, to return to Port Denison.

Otago Diggings.—The Comet cleared at the Customs yesterday, taking 29 passengers for the Otago gold-diggings. This is the second sailing craft, and third batch of people who have left here for the New Zealand mines, in all numbering ninety persons, which may be considered as a mere unit to the many hundreds that have left the Victorian side during the last few days.

The Boomerang (s.), left Rockhampton on the 24th, and Gladstone on the 25th instant; she had fresh S.E. and N.E. winds to Cape Hawke, and westerly weather the remainder of the passage; passed the Clarence (s.), on the 24th, also a schooner, bound to Rockhampton, off Cape Capricorn. On the 26th, passed a schooner off Facing Island, bound N.W. The Jenny Lind was to leave for Sydney on the 26th instant.

The Grafton and Waratah steamers, mentioned in yesterday's issue as being detained in Watson's Bay, left for their respective voyages during the night.

The Cairngorm, Captain Cairncross, for London, cleared at the Customs yesterday, and will be towed to sea at daylight to-morrow.

MORETON BAY.

ARRIVAL.

August 26.—Don Juan, from Rockhampton.

DEPARTURES.

August 23.—Buonaparte, for Port Denison.

August 24.—Victoria (s.), Firefly, for Gulf of Carpentaria; Albion, for Rockhampton; Francis George, for the Tweed, in ballast.

Shipping in Port.—August 27th: Hotham, steamer; Mangerton, ship; Flora, schooner; Pioneer (ashore); Swordfish, Don Juan, Scotia, Uncle Tom (brigantine).

The Pioneer.—This vessel is still on shore at Moreton Island, with several of the planks from her port bilge washed away. She would probably have been got off on Wednesday night's tide had the casks and tanks taken down by the Gem been ready for use at the proper time. Unfortunately they were not ready, as the Gem, instead of letting go her anchor when close to the Pioneer, was allowed to drift very near to the Venus Shoal before she was brought up, and lost six hours before she could get back and land the casks. An attempt was made to float the Pioneer on Thursday night, but the tides had taken off, and she barely righted. There can be now no chance of getting her off until the next spring tides.—Moreton Bay Courier, August 24.

The Francis George, for the Tweed, has on board Mr. Smith (and family) the owner of the Mary Jane, which is supposed to be lost.—Moreton Bay Courier, August 26.

It is rumoured that the Hotham will be purchased to bring up mails from the Sydney steamers, and also act as a pilot boat. This craft might be made of great service on the river, and we hope to hear of her being bought by the Government. She would be more useful than a large boat or sailing vessel.—Queensland Guardian, August 28.

The Scotia is taking in cedar for Launceston, at Messrs. Raff's Wharf; she will sail about this day week.—Queensland Guardian, August 28.

Runaway Sailors from the Mangerton.—A telegram was yesterday received by the Collector of Customs from the tide surveyor at Lytton, stating that three of the five sailors who had run away from the Mangerton, had got on shore from Peel Island, and had given such a report of the way in which the other two had left the island, as to cause great fears for their safety. Mr. Thornton immediately telegraphed instructions that the boat from Lytton should be despatched in search of the missing men, and remain out as long as this evening, should it be necessary.—Moreton Bay Courier, August 27.

ROCKHAMPTON.

DEPARTURE.

August 22.—Jenny Lind, 125 tons, Curran, for Sydney. Passengers—Messrs. Anderson, Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Sungor, Mrs. Anderson. Cargo: 9 casks tallow, 3 bundles skins, 12 bales wool, 30 boxes soap, 4 casks bottles, 1 bale corks, 60 hides.

The Whalers.—The ships James Arnold, 393 tons, Sullivan and Oneida, 420 tons, Vincent—both of New Bedford, sailed from Russell for the United States on the 3rd instant.—New Zealander, August 10.

The barque Minerva, 291 tons, Penniman, New Bedford, was standing off and on the 28th July, 15 months out, with 300 barrels sperm. Reports the Cornelius Howland, 431 tons, Dougherty, New Bedford (July), with 400 barrels sperm since leaving Auckland. Captain Penniman put in for letters, &c. This is the same Minerva, altered into a barque, which was in command of Captain Swain last voyage.—New Zealander, August 10.

In Otago vessels were lying empty for want of hands. The Mountain Maid was wholly deserted. The Airedale, arrived at Wellington, had to be worked up by the captain, mate, and engineer—the hands having all given them the slip at Otago.

The Esther, lying in Wellington, had also been deserted by all hands.—Hawke's Bay Herald, July 27.

The brigantine Clutha, recently arrived from Melbourne, via Nelson, has just changed hands. She has been purchased by Messrs. Cruickshank, Smart, and Co., in conjunction with Captain Anderson, late of the Frowning Beauty, by whom she is to be commanded. She has been laid on for New Plymouth.—Southern Cross.

Trial Trip of the Phœnix.—This local steamer, built by Mr. Carr of Official Bay, and fitted with renewed and remodelled machinery by Mr. Vickery of Stokes' Point, started on a trial trip yesterday afternoon, shortly after three o'clock. There was a numerous party, including several nautical gentleman, on board, and much interest was felt for the success of the tight little craft. There was a stiff breeze from N.N.E., and, at the time of starting, the ebb was running out strong. The course, at first, under steam alone, was from off the Wynyard Pier Head to Stokes Bay, an estimated distance of three miles; this, in the teeth of a very strong tide, was accomplished in thirty minutes. After a short stoppage in Stokes' Bay, the Phœnix ran up as far as the Watchman, setting her fore-and-aft canvas, and putting about on her return. From abreast of the Watchman, passing inside H.M. ship Miranda, rounding the hulk Marion, looking into Judges' Bay, and bringing up off the Wynyard Pier, but twenty-nine minutes elapsed. We are happy to have it in our power to congratulate Mr. Carr, Mr. Vickery, and Mr. Samuel on the complete and satisfactory manner in which the Phœnix passed through her ordeal of trial; the engines, though somewhat stiff, worked with much smoothness, and there was no unpleasant vibration or jerking of the screw, which is of two fans, from a model furnished by Mr. Samuel. The average pressure of steam was 25lbs. to 30lbs., and from the general performance of the vessel, with which the nautical gentlemen in particular expressed themselves to be greatly pleased, a speed of eight knots, under ordinary circumstances, may be confidently calculated on. The Phœnix is about 30 tons register, 16-horse power.—Southern Cross, August 14.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sir,—Observing in your Shipping Report that I struck the Pyrmont Bridge, you would oblige by publishing the following facts, and I leave it to yourself and to the public to say who was in the wrong. At 2.10 p.m. yesterday I gave notice at the bridge that I wished to pass through at 3 p.m., sent a messenger to them at 3.30, sent one of my crew to point out the vessel when she hove in sight. I got underway from the Grafton Wharf, setting the mainsail, with the peak down, and the jib. Passing the Patent Slip, saw the lessee leaning on the bridge and one of the labourers on the platform ready to swing it; everything being ready, I steered for the opening. When the traversing portion of the bridge was about ten feet open, it apparently hung on the rollers. Having no alternative but to either stave the vessel's bow or force the entrance, I took the latter, and passed through.

Your humble servant,
WILLIAM SUMMERBELL, master schooner Freak.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1861.

Our readers will no doubt have looked with some interest, as well as disgust, upon those trials for defamation of character which have occupied so much time in our Supreme Court. The law of libel in this colony extends every protection to character which it is entitled to claim. It does not require that those who go into a court of law, as in England, for the defence of their reputation, should go in with clean hands. It is no defence to say that the truth was told, if the truth was of no importance to the public—but was proclaimed simply to gratify the malice of the libeller, and was, so far as the public is concerned, uncalled for and useless. In this we believe our law differs from that of England in civil cases—where it is sufficient to prove that the statement is true without showing that the public are interested in the disclosure of the truth.

It has been contended that in the colony this plea, if established, should be a sufficient answer in a court of law. This is, however, in our opinion, extremely doubtful, especially in a country where great misery and wrong might be inflicted by a needless exposure of family or personal antecedents. It is well known that some of the papers of America derive their revenue largely from this source: not only by the actual publication, but by the threat of publication. No one can imagine a more vile and cruel calling. The Corsair of Algiers was a gentleman to these collectors of blackmail, whose proper punishment would be not a civil action, but a lot and part with other felons. It is quite sufficient if the right is left with any citizen to disclose to the colony such facts as he may know, and which it is for the public good should be made known, without establishing a trade in scandal. Many of the numerous cases of murder, and assault, and duelling (which differ nothing from murder), which we read of in every paper from the States may be attributed to that license allowed to libel, and the hopelessness of remedy by the aid of courts of law.

The verdict given in the action brought by a public man, if not a justification of the libel, yet approached nearly to it. A jury in looking at a case of libel should not undervalue the important social considerations which ought to restrain the exposure even of a bad man; but there are cases in which men draw upon themselves exposure by the imprudence with which they thrust themselves upon their fellow citizens.

In a country where universal suffrage exists, and the chance of election is open to the most unscrupulous and base, it seems only fair and right that public decency should be protected by the denunciation of men who, fresh from the chain gang, or just escaped from a condition of infamy—push themselves upon the public, and endeavour by their whole course to trample under foot the moral destinctions upon which the public happiness must rest. The only thing that can render it tolerable for any man to come forward in public life who has been exhibited in an infamous character, is the proof of his innocence or the presumption of his repentance—or such an interval of time and good conduct as shall have entitled him to oblivion. But if any man comes forward and audaciously pretends to treat as nothing the stamp of infamy affixed to him by the laws, and to act as though a legal capacity were a moral, social, or civic one—it may be a public duty to place his conduct in its true colour, and to protest against that ostentation which is insulting to every upright man.

The result of the recent action of Floyd v. Taylor will at least teach a lesson to those who go into a Court of Justice and turn their own villany into a defence. If we want to know what kind of people live among us it is only necessary to look into the proceedings of our courts day after day. There are disclosed characteristics which, but that they are common, would startle and alarm. We see how often wealth and villany are united—with what insolence the restraints of morality are trampled underfoot! how many there are who seem to have lost all remembrance of moral distinctions, or who glory in their shame! At the same time we have no reason to despair of society as long as the jury-box is true to its vital interests, and is a terror to those whose conduct places them almost outside the pale of humanity.

If it is right to protect society from the mischief of libels even where reputation has been forfeited, how much more is it the duty of jurors to guard the character of men when attacked from transparent malice, without even the probability of truth. We are aware that there are some persons who consider the defence of character a useless thing. Their notion is that men who deserve a reputation for integrity and social worth cannot be deprived of it by libels. These reasoners are apt to forget that it is not a man's own estimate of a libel which is only to be regarded. In his relation to others his vindication is often a duty not to be delayed. Nor can he be indifferent to the pain in which he would not participate except by sympathy, but which is often inflicted in a large circle by wanton calumny. No reproach upon our social system could be more bitter or more fitted to inspire despair, if just, than the assumption that the community in which we live is so base that reputation is not worth defending. It is far from true that calumnies do not injure. The maxim of libellers is not without foundation—that those who throw abundance of mud will leave a stain. Time and the rains of heaven may efface it, but who chooses to wait for time or a celestial interposition in order to throw off the odium unjustly cast upon him! The protection of life and property is not more essential to the happiness of society than the guardianship of the law cast about the character of the citizen so long as he is entitled to its shield. The words are not less true than hackneyed:—

"Who steals my purse, steals trash; 'tis something, nothing;
'Twas mine, 'tis his, and has been slave to thousands;
But he that filches from me my good name,
Robs me of that, which not enriches him,
But makes me poor indeed."

The migratory character of gold-diggers is an established fact—which may be lamented, or excused, or justified according to the fancy of the expositor, but which cannot be denied. When gold digging first became a vocation in Australia, the tented life and wandering habits it caused were looked upon as a great misfortune, but one which it was hoped would be only temporary. When townships were laid out, and farms were surveyed, it was thought that miners would attach themselves more or less to the soil and lead a less unsettled life. But the expectation has been disappointed. Townships and gold-fields settlements have been formed, yet those who have bought land and erected homesteads have not been the miners so much as those who cater for the miners. The storekeepers, the publicans, the farmers, the market gardeners, et hoc genus omne, these have fixed themselves in the neighbourhood of the diggers to supply their wants and live on the fruit of their good fortune. But the diggers themselves are not leg tied. They could strike their tent pegs and move off in a body, leaving behind them no more valuable fixed investments than an occasional cabbage garden, a few sod huts, or some stone chimneys, and here and there a rickety windlass. Those members of mining companies, both here and in Victoria, who have gone energetically into quartz crushing, and who at considerable expense have fitted up machinery, are of course exceptions to this statement. They have given hostages for their permanence, and as they could not move without great loss, they are less inclined to fly off. But they form a slight minority. The majority of gold-miners are still as they were nine years ago, alluvial diggers, passing from hole to hole, from gully to gully, from colony to colony. Bedouins are not more nomadic.

The latest rush is all the way to the southern end of the middle island of New Zealand. Gold has lately been found there. We are almost destitute, at present, of any minute knowledge of the character of the new Eldorado. We know nothing of the geological structure of the country, of its resemblance to any of our older gold fields, or of the probability of its being a rich and permanent one. But all the settlers in the little province have gone mad about it. All the phenomena which were seen in Sydney when gold was first found on the Turon, and in Melbourne when Forest Creek revealed its treasures, are being repeated at Dunedin. Employés of all sorts have taken leave of their masters—not to say of their senses, and have bolted precipitately into the ranges.

Of course such news has produced a "profound impression" upon the gold-diggers in Victoria and New South Wales. How is it possible for a digger to hear of distant nuggets and not be deeply moved? In scores of tents, Tuapeka is all the talk, and hundreds have already taken ship for Otago, resolved to be there in time to secure good claims.

It used to be confidently asserted by the "people's friends," that the reason why the gold-digger was a wanderer was because he had no alternative. His instincts were all towards fixed settlements, and a freehold homestead would bind him securely to the spot of his choice. But the fallacy of this assertion is now apparent. Free selection, with its tempting accompaniment of deferred payments, has been in operation in Victoria for some months, and available by all who choose to turn fixed settlers. Yet free selection has been no more potent to hold the diggers than packthread could hold a Sampson. They break away from all attractions of that kind, and rush after nuggets to a settlement where no such "liberal" land law exists. Still further to increase the seductions of farming, the Government of Victoria has issued occupation licenses before survey up to a hundred and sixty acres, on very easy terms, and yet the diggers turn their backs upon these pressing invitations, and shake their heads at the temptation, and are off to the little out-of-the-way settlement of Otago.

If it were possible to make a calculation of the total amount of money that diggers have wasted in chasing fortune from gold-field to gold-field, it would certainly take the gilt off the attractions of new diggings. It is difficult to meet with a working man who has not at some time or other tried his fortune on the gold-fields, and it is rare to find the man who has retired on the competency he achieved, while the number of those who have swamped their previous savings is legion. We have seen rushes to Rockhampton, to Kiandra, and to Lambing Flat, and we have seen the reaction of distress and impoverishment that has befallen many who sold their little properties to raise funds to get to the diggings.

Whether the Otago rush is to grow to similar dimensions, we cannot venture to predict. To argue that it would be unreasonable would be no safe guide, for miners rush about on the most insufficient inducements, and seem always ready to "leave the ills they have, to fly to others that they know not of." Gold-digging is essentially a lottery, and the man who has not drawn his prize is confident that it is lying in wait for him at the bottom of some hole. He is aroused to a pitch of unrestrainable excitement when he hears that at some other place comrades have dropped upon their luck, and he is off at full speed to sink his hole beside them, in the confident persuasion that he cannot fail to be successful there. Imagination pictures the glittering treasure, and all the intervening troubles in the foreground are overlooked. Long tramps by land, long voyages by water do not deter him. He is ready for any climate. Alpine snows and tropical heats are alike disregarded. The digger is of no country, he calls no place his home. Ubi bene ibi patria. Nuggets beckon him from land to land, and he follows without power to resist the spell.

The sudden advent of so large and so peculiar a population will severely test the administrative agencies of the little province of Otago. But the authorities have all the benefit of Australian experience to guide them, and they will doubtless avail themselves of it. A stimulus given to New Zealand colonisation will just now be very convenient for it, and help it to assume a more prominent position in the Australian group.

LAW.

SUPREME COURT.—FRIDAY.

SITTINGS IN BANCO.

BEFORE the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Wise.

LANGLEY V. RUSSELL AND OTHERS.

Mr. Isaacs applied to the Court to certify for costs in this case.

Mr. Stephen, for the defendants, opposed the application on the ground that there had been no reason shown why this cause had not been brought in the District Court. A precisely similar case, on this very agreement, had been already dealt with in the lower Court.

The Chief Justice: There certainly ought not to be, or even appear to be, any disposition on the part of this Court to encourage the pursuing of causes in this Court for sums under £30, when those causes could be just as well tried in the District Court. No doubt this case might just as well have been tried in the lower Court, yet at the same time he was not prepared to say that this was not a proper Court to come to, seeing that the cause involved a number of questions not so very easy to be disposed of; and besides this, the plaintiff might under one contingency have recovered more than £30, and he should therefore certify for plaintiff's costs.

DUMARESQ V. ROBERTSON.

An application on behalf of defendant, a responsible Minister of the Crown, to settle the terms on which an appeal should be made to the Privy Council against the judgment of this Court.

Sir W. Manning, Q.C., and Mr. Isaacs appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Martin, Q.C., for the defendant.

Mr. Martin submitted to the Court that the Crown, which appeared by its Ministers, was entitled to appeal to the Privy Council without giving the security for costs insisted upon in ordinary cases.

Sir W. Manning urged that no appeal could be allowed unless in the terms prescribed by the Orders in Council under which the right of appeal was given. The terms of those orders were mandatory upon the Court, who were left entirely without discretion in the matter.

Mr. Martin: All the Government required was to have this matter argued and decided as soon as possible, and therefore instead of doing as they might do, that was applying to the Privy Council for their decision, when no doubt that Council would send here for the proceedings before this Court and thereby cause a delay of some six months,—instead of doing this they applied in the ordinary way to this Court, so that the proceedings might be sent home at once.

Mr. Justice Wise: The Court must obey the law, and the law said that the Court should allow an appeal only on certain terms, and those terms the Court was therefore bound by.

The Chief Justice was clearly of opinion that the Court had no power beyond those rules, and they declared that security should be given. As this was an important point, the Court should deliver a written judgment, in order that there might be no mistake as to what their opinion was. The decision of the Court, however, was that the defendant should give security for costs in £300.

RUSDEN V. WEEKES.

This was an application on the part of plaintiff for the Court to fix the terms of appeal.

Mr. Martin, Q.C., for the plaintiff; Mr. Broadhurst, for defendant.

The Court directed that security for costs to the extent of £300 should be given by plaintiff.

SITTINGS IN INSOLVENCY.

CERTIFICATES.

The certificates granted to the following insolvents were on the motion of the Chief Commissioner confirmed by the Court, viz., Patrick Keating, Peter Winter, Edward O'Hara, Henry John Lavers, Isaac Bell, Illingworth Fletcher, and Henry Elmes Campbell

The Chief Commissioner also reported that he had refused a certificate to William M'Ilhatton for his having given a fraudulent and unjust preference to one creditor over another; and that notice of an intention to appeal had been filed.

HERRING V. MAGNAY.

The rule nisi for the compulsory sequestration of defendant was, on the motion of Mr. Sheppard, made absolute, there being no appearance for defendant.

WALLACK V. LLOYD.

Judgment was delivered in this case by the Judges as follows:—

Sir Alfred Stephen, C.J.: The question for decision in this case is one of much difficulty, depending on the construction of our local Insolvent Act, sections 40 and 45; as to the admissibility to proof, of the sum now sought to be recovered against the defendant's estate while under sequestration. The defendant insists that it was provable, under one or the other of those sections, and, if it were so, the debt is now barred by his certificate.

The circumstances out of which the question arises are the following:—The plaintiff purchased in this colony for the defendant, then in England, under an agreement between them, large quantities of wool for sale there by the latter. The defendant was, by the agreement, to furnish account sales of the wool, and the plaintiff was to receive a per centage on the net profits, when ascertained, if any; such per centage varying, according to the rate of profit; and, if there should be no such profits, the plaintiff was to get nothing. The transaction was, until the account sales should have been made up, to be deemed "an open account" between the parties. The defendant came out to this colony, and was here declared insolvent, before the result of the wool sales had been ascertained, and of course, therefore, before it could be known whether any net profit would arise, and, indeed, before all the sales had been effected. But, shortly after the first, the sales were completed; and, before the final distribution of the assets of the estate, the account sales were made up and sent out. By these (in connection, of course, with the items of cost price, and freight, with other charges) considerable net profits appear to have been realised; and the plaintiff now sues the defendant for the amount of the agreed percentage. To this, the latter has pleaded his sequestration and certificate; relying on the 31st and 97th sections of the Act, which protect an insolvent from all debts and claims, proved "or provable," against his estate while under sequestration.

The question is, therefore, whether the plaintiff's demand was a debt or claim in the bankruptcy—and, as the parties have agreed that the result shall depend on that question solely, it will be unnecessary to notice the pleadings in detail. It is sufficient to mention, that the facts here stated appear on the face of them; and that the point has been raised, on demurrer to the replication to that plea.

By s. 40 of the Act, no person "whose debt depends upon a contingency" shall be entitled to petition, or vote in any proceeding under the sequestration, until the contingency shall have happened. But the creditor in any such debt, contracted before the sequestration, may "while the contingency on which such debt depends shall not have happened" cause the value to be ascertained, and set on it; and then he may be admitted to prove that value. Or the creditor, after such contingency has happened, may prove in respect of such debt, and receive dividends accordingly. Provided that, "when the creditor in any such debt or claim,—the contingency of which shall not have happened, and the value of which shall not have been so ascertained,—shall enter a claim on the estate in respect of such debt, the assignees shall rank the claimant as if the contingency had happened," and the Court shall make an order for securing the dividends until the happening of the contingency; when the sum secured shall be paid to the claimant, "or to the general creditors, as the case may be."

After the words "upon a contingency" in this section, there occur the words "or upon an uncertain condition," and terms are afterwards used, throughout the clause, to extend its application to cases of the latter kind. But I have not inserted them in the preceding abstract of its provisions, in order to avoid needless repetitions; because, if the present case be within the section, it is so by reason of the debt or claim being one depending on a contingency.

Then, by s. 45, any "debt which was due, or the cause of which arose, prior to the Order for Sequestration, may be proved at any meeting of the creditors, at any time before the final distribution of the estate,"—subject only to the proviso, that all the proceedings are to be at the incoming creditor's own expense, and that no previous dividends are to be affected by such proof.

In the English Bankrupt Act of 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, repealed by the 13 Vic., c. 106, there was a section (the 56th) very similar to our own sec. 40; and it has been the source of more litigation and greater differences of Judicial decision than any other enactment in the statute book: not only in determining the application of the clause, but in fixing its construction and meaning. The proper idea to be attached to the word debt, whether the popular or a strictly legal one—whether the debt must or not be susceptible of valuation, at the time of the bankruptcy, and what is the meaning or effect of the word contingency, are questions which have been variously determined. Still greater doubt appears to have existed as to the application of the enactment to particular cases. In short, scarcely a claim or contract, supposed or alleged to be within it, has been finally admitted to proof or rejected, without adjudications on the question, by high authority, both ways.

The 6 Geo. iv., c. 16, s 56, is in substance as follows. Where the bankrupt shall have "contracted any debt, payable on a contingency" which has not happened before the fiat, the person with whom such debt was contracted may cause its value to be ascertained, and he shall be admitted to prove the amount of that valuation. Or, if the value be not ascertained before the happening of such contingency, he may prove in respect of such debt, after the contingency; but so as not to disturb any former dividends.

The decisions on this enactment, many of which were cited on the argument, are in number about thirty. It is not my intention to go through those decisions; nor could the task be accomplished within any reasonable limits. I have, however, carefully considered them; and the following appears to me, on the balance of the authorities, to be the result. First, the section applies only to cases of debt, properly so called; or, at least, of contracts to pay (on the happening of the particular contingency) something definite:—not to cases where damages would be claimable, or there is a liability merely, which may or may not become a debt. Certain cases of guarantee, perhaps, might be considered exceptions from this rule; but, if these be so, I do not find any other. Secondly, however, the debt—or contingency on which its payment depends—need not be such as to admit of valuation at the time of the bankruptcy. If the contingency be such, that no valuation of the claim or debt can be made, because the event alone can determine the amount, the first portion of the clause will (pending such contingency) simply be inoperative. But should the contingency actually occur, at any time before the proof is tendered, the amount then shown by it to be payable may be proved, as provided for by the second part of the section.

If, therefore, there be no substantial difference between the terms used in the English statute, and those cited from our own, (either the 40th section separately taken, or the 40th and 45th sections construed together,) it seems clear that no debt could have been proved in this case. The contingency, or, rather the contingencies,—that is to say, the selling of the wool, and making up of the accounts, and ascertainment or happening of profits,—had no doubt occurred; although not before the sequestration. But they all occurred, and could have been shown by evidence, before the proof would have been tendered. If, therefore, the possibility of valuation before ascertainment was not necessary under this section, the plaintiff would on that point have encountered no difficulty. He nevertheless could not, under the English section, have been admitted to prove; because at the time of the sequestration, there was merely a "liability" on the part of the insolvent—and no "debt," or the certainty of one. The nature of the contingencies, moreover, as I shall have occasion to show hereafter, would alone have excluded the application of the enactment, had the word "liability" been substituted in it for the less extensive term.

On the question, whether our colonial law is, in all these respects, the same as that to which the English decisions refer, I am of opinion in the negative. With regard to the word contingency, and the provision as to valuation, the sections correspond. The word "debt" also is the same in each enactment. But, in the 6 G. 4, c 16 s. 56, the terms are a debt payable on a contingency; whereas, in the Colonial section 40, the terms are a debt which depends on a contingency. I have no doubt, that the change of language was intentional; and adopted, probably, in order to meet some of the very questions, which, under the English clause, had then recently been in controversy. But, assuming this to have been the object, the question of construction will of course remain; and it is not an easy one. There is, indeed, difficulty in all such cases; and, considering the conflict of opinion on the parent clause, in the learned Courts at Westminster, similar differences—should they exist—may readily be pardoned here. The hardship imposed on creditors, however (and equally in some instances on the bankrupt), by the ordinary rejection there of inchoate or incomplete claims, not amounting to debts, led at length to an alteration in the law in England by the 13 Vict., c. 106. In that statute, s. 177, the exact words of the old s. 56 are re-enacted; but, in a new clause (the 178th), cases of "liability" depending on a contingency are embraced—or, apparently, are meant to be so.

My opinion is, that the same object has been accomplished, in effect, by our Insolvent Act, sections 40 and 45. The word "debt" is no doubt used; but the context shows, as I think, that it could not have been intended to express,—as in the 6 G. 4 it is held to do,—a completed obligation, or a contract to pay a sum certain. In that statute, the contingency or uncertainty affected the payment only. But, in our own, the thing legislated for (call it what you will) is a debt or claim which itself depends on a contingency. Such a demand cannot, possibly, be a "debt" in any accurate sense. It is something, which may depend either on a contingency, or on an uncertain condition:—for such are the additional words used. A matter thus depending on uncertainty for very existence, is clearly a liability; but nothing more. Something which may perhaps become a debt, but at present is not one. The Colonial enactment, therefore, in my opinion, contemplated and embraces the large class of claims, not within the 6, G. 4, c. 16; where men held engagements of a bankrupt, likely to end in a debt,—but which they could not prove, because the maturing of the liability into an actual debt, depended on some circumstance at the moment of the bankruptcy unknown. And it appears to me that this conclusion is materially aided by the language of s. 45; which, not creating any new class of provable debts or claims, but comprehending all classes already so made, applies to such debts the words, "the cause of which arose" before the sequestration.

Assuming this, however, to be the correct interpretation, and reading s. 40 as if the word "liability" were there, instead of the word debt, the difficulty still presents itself as to the value of the contingencies, on which that liability depended. And the decisions on the new English section, it appears to me, are conclusive on this head against the defendant. Had the wool here not been sold, or an account of the sales not been rendered, his liability would have been simply to an action for damages. But, supposing the defendant so far to perform his contract, as in the sequel in fact he has done, what then was the liability? No certain answer could be given, other than this; that he was to pay a stated per centage, less or more according to the profits, or nothing if there should be no profit. The contingencies, therefore, at the time of the sequestration, on which this defendant's liability to pay any sum whatever depended, were these:—first, that the wool should be sold; secondly, that accounts of the sales should be rendered; and, thirdly, that on the transaction there should have been a profit. But, according to the authorities, a liability depending on so many and such precarious circumstances, the failure in any one of which would prevent the accruing of a debt, is not within the enactment. Warburg v. Tucker, 28 L. J., Q. B. 56; Boyd v. Robins, ibid., C. P. 72; and Parker v. Ince, in the same volume, Exch. 189.

It seems to have been agreed in the last of those cases, if not also in the first, that the Statute contemplated one contingency only as existing, and not more. But, whether so or not, I am constrained to hold that this case at all events is not within the section. The defendant has therefore failed to sustain his plea; and, consequently, the plaintiff is entitled to recover.

I desire to add, in few words, my reasons for the conclusion expressed, that in cases under these enactments the debt need not, at the time of the bankruptcy, be susceptible of valuation. If Ex p. Simpson, (the case of Ex p. Myers on re-hearing,) 1 Mont. and Ayr. 641, and In re Willis, 4 Exch. 532, or Ex p. Lewis, Mont. and Mac. 426, be law, claims against a bankrupt on a guarantee, or suretyship in the nature of a guarantee, for the payment of a debt by a third person, are within the section; though no default by the principal, at that time, shall have happened. But it is impossible, in the nature of things, to calculate the probabilities in cases of that kind; for the debt guaranteed might be duly paid. The contingency would depend, not alone on the ability, but the honesty, or mere will of the principal; and his inability might be total, or partial only. Who could estimate the value of a demand so uncertain? Moreover, the opinion of the Chief Judge in Ex p. Marshall, 1 Mont. and Ayr. 156, and of Parke B. in The Stafford Railway v. Burnside, 20 L. J. Exch. 122, appear to me distinctly to support this conclusion.

Mr. Justice Wise: I am also of opinion that the plaintiff is entitled to our judgment. I am not, however, satisfied that the construction put upon the 40th section by the Chief Justice is correct, and I prefer founding my judgment upon the decisions under 6 George IV., c. 16, and 12 and 13 Vic., c 106, s. 177. If, however, the more enlarged construction be correct, I agree with the Chief Justice, for the reasons so fully stated in his judgment that this claim was not provable.

The English Act uses only the words, "debt payable upon a contingency;" but, with all respect to the opinion of the Chief Justice, I am unable to draw any distinction between the meaning of the two expressions, "debt payable upon a contingency" and "debt depending upon a contingency." A debt "payable upon a contingency" seems to me equivalent to a debt, the payment of which depends upon a contingency, and a debt depending upon a contingency equivalent to a debt the payment of which depends upon a contingency.

I think the result of the English decisions is that to constitute a contingent debt, there must be either a definite amount which became a debt in the strict sense upon the happening of the contingency, and therefore, capable of valuation before the happening of the case, or a guaranteed debt already in existence. (Lane v. Burchart, 3 M., 9 s., 557; and re Willis, 4 Exch.) I will briefly refer to a few of the decisions establishing this proposition. All claims upon contingencies are certainly not within the statute; E. g. Annuities (Thompson v. Thompson, 2 Bing., NC. 175; Amyott v. Holden, 18 Q. B. 593.) Nor where the debt depends upon other circumstances than the happening of the event; as an indemnity bond—(Hunter v. Axrmann, 2 C.B. 307., and per Sir G. Rose, 1 Mont. A. 569); or where it is uncertain whether calls upon shares will be made, or to what amount—(South Staffordshire Railway v. Burnside, 5 Exch.); nor where the amount depends on a judgment obtained after the bankruptcy—(Haukin v. Bennett, 2129. Ex. 326); nor where the amount to be recovered is in the nature of damages altogether uncertain at the time of bankruptcy—(Warburg v. Tucker, 2423, Q B., 37; ex parte Todd, 2429, Bk. 20); or requiring the intervention of the jury to fix the items—(Green v. Bicknell, 8s and E. 7, recognised in Woolley v. Smith, 3 C.B., 610).

Upon the grammatical construction of the 40th section of the Colonial Act it might well be doubted whether it embraces any claim which is not capable of calculation at the time of the bankruptcy. It would appear to apply to the same class of debts under three different states of circumstances.

The creditor in respect of any debt which depends upon a contingency, is not entitled to petition, or to vote as a creditor, but (1) "he may if he think fit" have his debt valued, and prove the amount so specified. The effect of this would be that having elected to have the debt valued, the subsequent happening of the contingency would not entitle him to prove for any further sum. (2) If such value be not ascertained; i. e., if he does not so elect and carry his election out, then such creditor may prove such debt after the contingency has happened.

The use of the word such must mean the creditor and debt described in the early part of the section. But he may not like to have his debt valued, or lose his chance of the larger sum upon the contingency happening, so the section provides that "the creditor in any such debt, or claim, the contingency of which shall not have happened, shall enter a claim upon the estate in respect of such debt, the trustee shall rank the claimant as if the contingency had happened, and shall forthwith apply to the Supreme Court, or any Judge thereof, to make an order, and the said Court or Judge shall make such order for securing the dividend or sum which the claimant would be entitled to draw until the contingency upon which the debt depends shall happen, when the sum so secured shall be paid to the claimant or to the general creditors, as the case may be; and any interest which may in the meantime arise and be received thereupon, shall belong to, and be paid to the other creditors." The word claim has plainly crept into the proviso, and is mere surplusage. That proviso properly relates to the subject of the previous enactment, and it is followed by the words descriptive of the class of debt, viz., the contingency which shall not have happened, or the value of which shall not have been so ascertained as aforesaid. The whole section is thus intelligible. Debts depending upon a contingency may be valued, and dividends received in value—or proved in full after the event—or proved as a claim before,—and as the class would include debts which might never become payable, e.g., a post obit depending upon survivorship, the money so set apart might subsequently belong to the creditors. Each of the three provisions contemplate something certain and definite; the last especially shows this, for the trustee is to rank as if the contingency had happened. Whatever force there may be in this reasoning, I think that the decisions upon the corresponding section in the English Acts establish that a guarantee of an ascertained debt at the time of bankruptcy, although incapable of valuation, is within the enactment (in re Willis, 4 Exch.), the judgment in which case, however, does not correctly state the decision of ex parte Myers (see Abbott v. Hendricks, 5 Bing., N. C., 59).

But the present case does not come within either class.

It was wholly uncertain whether there would be any debt at all, or rather whether there would be any claim at all. The wool might never have arrived in England. The net proceeds might have been less than sufficient to pay the required profit, and the proceeds were to be arrived at, not merely by the amount of the sales, but taking into account all the expenses incident to the transaction from the commencement. Nor were these items fixed in amount, but might all have been the subject of dispute between the parties. The defendant, therefore, who seeks to set up his exemption from his legal liability, fails to bring himself within the protection of the statute, and, notwithstanding his subsequent insolvency, must, if he has no other defence, pay the plaintiff the amount claimed.

After judgment had been delivered—

Mr. Sheppard, on part of defendant, would ask the Court to reserve leave for the defendant to apply for leave to plead de novo.

Under this judgment a question arose as to whether the insolvency of defendant did not act as a bar to the action.

The Court would not grant leave to amend, but would give leave to defendant to apply in chambers for leave to plead anew, on an affidavit of merits.

BANK OF AUSTRALASIA V. HARRIS AND ANOTHER.

Mr. Justice Wise delivered judgment in this case as follows:—

This is a special case stated for the opinion of the Court The plaintiffs as indorsers sued the defendants as acceptors of two bill of exchange for £1336 8s. 3d. each; and obtained judgment upon demurrer to certain pleas. After the commencement of this action, the plaintiffs proved against the estate of the drawers of the bills and received a dividend of £668 4s. 1d. The question raised for our decision is, whether the plaintiffs are entitled to retain their judgment and issue execution for the amount of the bills, or only for the difference between that amount and the dividend received.

The case was argued by Mr. Darvall on behalf of the plaintiffs, and Mr. Martin on behalf of the defendants; and we are of opinion that the plaintiffs are entitled to recover the whole. There is some discrepancy between the earlier decisions on this point, but we think that Johnson v. Kinnaird, (2 Wilson, 262.) is an express authority, recognised and adopted by the Court of Common Pleas (Walwyn v. St. Quinten, 1 Bos. and P., 658), and in Jones v. Broadhurst (9 C. B., 173), that part payment by a drawer or indorser does not enure to the benefit of the acceptor, whose duty it was to pay the bill at maturity.

Mr. Martin, in support of the defendants' claim, relied chiefly upon the decision in exparte Taylor, 3 Jurist, 753, N. S. In that case the Lords Justices held that the holder of a bill of exchange, who prior to proof has received part payment from the drawer, could prove in bankruptcy against the estate of the bankrupt acceptor for the balance, only due at the time of making proof. The cases at law were cited, and the Lord Justice Knight Bruce certainly intimated that he was not satisfied that they established the right of the holder to recover at law more than the balance. But both he and Lord Justice Turner based their decision upon the principles and precedents in bankruptcy, where the right of proof does not in all cases follow the right to recover at law. This decision, therefore, does not purport to overrule the cases which we have referred to, and which we think conclusive Pownall v. Ferrand, 6 B. and Cr., 438, also referred to by Mr. Martin, only decided that when the acceptor has been credited by the holder with the amount received from the indorser, the indorser may sue the acceptor for money paid.

We are of opinion, therefore, that the plaintiffs are entitled to our judgment; although they will hold the amount received beyond the amount of the bills, as trustees for the drawers or their representatives.

INSOLVENCY COURT.

FRIDAY.

BEFORE the Chief Commissioner.

FRIDAY.

In the estate of Mitchell and Co, an adjourned examination. Mr. Williamson was examined by Mr. Martin, in reference to the sixth and seventh grounds on which Mr. Stuart opposes his application for a certificate of discharge. Mr. Darvall attended on behalf of insolvent.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

FRIDAY.

BEFORE Messrs. Cooper, Williams, Manning, Oatley, Caldwell, and S. Cohen.

Three drunkards were fined 10s. each, or in default of payment to be imprisoned twenty-four hours.

A young man named Mark West for bought before the Court at the instance of his wife, as a person of unsound mind, the result of intemperance, and consequently one whom it is unsafe to allow at large, and was pro forma required to enter into bonds for his good behaviour, failing in which to be imprisoned for medical treatment fourteen days.

Eight drapers were fined 10s. each on conviction of having caused obstructions, by allowing their show goods to overhang the footways in front of their respective premises. Those who failed to attend the Court in obedience to the summons were ordered to pay 10s. 6d. professional costs, in addition to the 2s. 6d. Court costs, payable in every case under the Police Act.

Sarah Hoffmann occupied Messrs. Oatley and Caldwell the whole day, and was then adjourned until Tuesday.

WATER POLICE COURT.

FRIDAY.

BEFORE the Water Police Magistrate and Mr. J. Williams.

Louis Vallo and Antonio Greco, found guilty of desertion from the Dutch ship Anna Digna, were sentenced to six weeks' hard labour in gaol; and James Beech, a deserter from the British ship Edith Byrne, was awarded a like punishment.

William Read and Charles Kay, apprehended at Bargo as deserters from H.M.S. Fawn, and John Wilson, a seaman of that vessel, found drunk in George-street, were sent on board.

The complaint of Catherine Coats against a seaman named Joseph Whitman, whom she charged with assaulting her, was dismissed, complainant not appearing.

THE CLERK OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL.—We stated yesterday morning that Mr. Charles Cowper, jun., was about to fill the office of Clerk of the Executive Council, vacated by Mr. E. C. Merewether. Previous to the official announcement of that appointment, a proclamation appeared in yesterday evening's Government Gazette, declaring the Clerk of the Executive Council capable of being elected a member of the Legislative Assembly. It would appear from this arrangement that, upon the determination of the Government to give the above appointment to Mr. Cowper, jun., it was considered that the relation he sustains to the Chief Secretary would be one of weight in the event of another Ministry taking office, render his position somewhat embarrassing, and consequently, instead of the clerkship of the Executive Council being, as hitherto, permanent, it is now made a political appointment, the incumbent only holding it during the existence of the present Ministry. Being thus made a political officer, liable to removal with the Government, it was evidently thought desirable by the Government to make a further exception, in removing the disqualification for a seat in the Assembly which attends the acceptance of such an office, and in availing themselves of the support of the officer in the House. It is accordingly stated to be Mr. Cowper, jun.'s intention to resign his seat for the Tumut and to apply again for re-election. By the 18th clause in the Constitution Act any person holding an office of profit under the Crown is incapable of sitting in the Legislative Assembly, excepting certain official members of the Government and such additional officers, not more than five in number, as the Governor may declare capable of election. We believe that the only additional officers so declared eligible have been the Secretaries for Lands and for Public Works, at the time of the organisation of those departments, both being official members of the Government. As the present alteration is swinging entirely to the peculiar position which the new Clerk of the Executive Council will occupy, and not to any inconvenience having arisen from the previous arrangement, and as it must be attended with some disadvantages, it is scarcely likely that it would be adhered to by any subsequent Government. The Clerk of the Executive Council must necessarily be in the confidence of the Government in matters relating to their public policy; and Mr. Cowper, jun., will occupy a quasi Ministerial position, although not having charge of any public department; he will not be recognised in the Assembly as a Government official.

ANTI-CHINESE MEETING, BALMAIN.—A meeting, convened by advertisement under the head of "No Chinese," was held last evening at Alton's, Unity Hall, Balmain. Between fifty and sixty persons attended. Mr. S. D. Stenhouse occupied the chair. On the motion of Mr. M'Clements, seconded by Mr. W. Fenton, it was unanimously resolved, "That the immigration of the Chinese to this colony is most impolitic; that as colonists they are unnecessary and injurious; and that, inasmuch as their social habits are repulsive to ours, they are a continual source of irritation, which tends to alienate the affections of the people from our institutions, jeopardise the public peace, and impair the character of this colony as a field for immigration of British enterprise and industry." Mr. R. S. Ross moved, and Mr. M'Beath seconded the resolution, "That this meeting is of opinion that the most effectual way of terminating the unhappy disturbances which are continually taking place between the Europeans and the Chinese is, by complying with the voice of the people's representatives, as expressed in the last Parliament—namely, by preventing the Chinese from digging for gold, and by imposing a tax upon them when landing in this colony,"—which was unanimously agreed to. It was likewise resolved, on the motion of Mr. J. Bunting, seconded by Mr. Burt, "That a petition be drawn up, embodying the foregoing resolutions, to be signed by the people, and presented to the Legislative Assembly." In support of these resolutions, several addresses were delivered demonstrative of the degraded and vicious character of the Chinese, of the tendency of admixture with them to deteriorate the moral character of the colonists, and of the general undesirability of their presence in this country especially in such large and fast increasing numbers. A vote of thanks was accorded to the chairman, and before the meeting dissolved nearly all the attendants signed petitions to the two Houses of Legislature.

THE MEAT OF THE ALPACA.—We understand that, subsequently to the visit of the Governor and Ministers to Mr. Atkinson's, at Sophienberg, it was determined at once to slaughter the animals whose skins are to be studied for the Exhibition of 1862; and yesterday afternoon "circular" intimation was given to all the principal restaurants in Sydney that instructions had been given to Mr. Ledger to supply them with "some alpaca meat," in order to afford the public an opportunity of judging of its quality.

SOUTH HEAD ROAD TRUST.—Edward O'Brien, Esq., has been appointed a Commissioner of the South Head Road Trust, vice Francis O'Brien, Esq., resigned.

ACCEPTED TENDERS.—The undermentioned tenders have been accepted by the Government:—Mr. William Brian—for the erection of a cottage at Cabramatta, on the Great Southern Railway. Mr. Alexander Mitchell—for the erection of a court and watch-house, at Uralla. Messrs. Everett and Stephens—for the erection of a court and watch-house, at Wentworth. Mr. D. Baillie—for the erection of a bridge over the Wollundry lagoon.

AUSTRALIAN MUSICAL BOUQUET.—We have been favoured with a copy of the Australian Volunteers' Song, the words and music by Madame F. S. Sachs, of Balmain. It is a lively, inspiriting air in two sharps, quite adapted for a voice of moderate compass. It is published by Mr. J. C. Fussell, the energetic proprietor of that well-known publication—The Australian Musical Bouquet. We have great pleasure in recommending it to our musical readers.

DARLING POINT.—Mr. F. Hales, a sergeant of No. 6 Company Volunteer Rifles, is about to establish a Juvenile Corps for the instruction of youths resident in the vicinity of Darling Point, who are prevented by distance from joining either of the existing corps. An advertisement in another column invites lads desirous of becoming members to leave their names with the master of St. Mark's School, and states that a meeting will shortly be called to arrange the hours for drill, &c.

RIFLE SHOOTING AT PADDINGTON.—The members of the volunteer artillery corps met yesterday for practice at the military butts, when some very good shooting was made at 300, 500, and 600 yards respectively. The immediate object of the meeting was with the view of determining on the selection of shooters for the grand matches to be given next month, under the auspices of the Rifle Association. The choice will not, however, be made until the members have had the benefit of more practice, for which purpose they will be summoned together again in the course of a few days.

THE ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—A romantic and deeply interesting drama, entitled Captain Kyd, or the Pirate of the Seas, has been most successfully produced at the Lyceum; having had a run, in the presence of very large houses, throughout the week now drawing to a close. This drama was followed on Monday and Tuesday last by the amusing farce of "Who do they take me for," or the Irish Artist; the after piece on Wednesday and on Thursday being the farce of Hunting the Turtle. Last night the entertainments were continued by the performance of the Happy Man. The pieces announced for representation this evening are Captain Kyd, and the Review.

FRITH'S DERBY DAY.—The celebrated painting by Frith, R.A., of the "Derby Day" was, by far, the most attractive and popular of all the pictures at the Exhibition in 1858 of the Royal Academy, the canvas being completely crowded with the characters and incidents met with on that festival holiday occasion, depicted with an equal amount of humour and truthfulness. The picture was purchased of the artist by Messrs. Gambart and Co., of London, for £3000, at whose instance it is being engraved in line by August Blanchard. A copy of the etching has been received by Mr J. R. Clarke, of George-street, and is to be shown early with a view to receiving the names of subscribers for proofs or prints of the picture. We believe that the engraving will occupy about six months longer, after which the copies ordered will be immediately sent out. Although the etching in Mr. Clarke's shop exhibits the wealth of the artist's invention and his ability to cope with so difficult a subject, it is necessarily far from a perfect representation of the remarkable picture; and we subjoin for the benefit of those who may desire to learn the opinions pronounced by the contemporary press, an extract from a notice of the Exhibition of the Royal Academy in the London Morning Herald of May 1st, 1858:—"The most attractive picture of all will, undoubtedly, be 'The Derby Day,' by Frith. It is not a representation of a race, as the name implies, but a view of the company attending the race. The artist appears to have chosen the opportunity for the statement it afforded of displaying his general powers as a painter, but with the intention of showing his fertility in selecting character, his facility in painting it in all its variety when chosen, and his taste in combining and contrasting it in the most amusing and instructive manner. We see the spectacle, that is, we trow, better preserved by suffering to pass unnoticed the comments of the Press, even if somewhat warm, than by attempting to restrain them by legal prosecutions. I may mention that the Court during the trial was greatly crowded, and that the verdict of the jury was received with cheers; which, however, his Honor did his best to repress. In the evening the event was celebrated by bonfires and the burning of tar barrels. On the following Friday evening a public meeting was held, presided over by Alderman Mayne, "to congratulate the country and the chairman" on the result of the trial. The following resolutions were passed:—

"That this meeting regards the successful issue of the contest between the Press and the Legislative Council as a matter for universal congratulation, and desires to record its unalterable determination to firmly resist every future attack upon our privilege to speak and print our opinions as the public man and political measures with all British constitutional freedom.

"That arrangements be entered into for the purpose of defraying the expenses incurred by the printer and publisher of the Courier in defending this vexatious and tyrannical action.

"That a committee be formed for the purpose of carrying into immediate effect the second resolution, and the names of the following gentlemen are proposed, with power to add to their number:—Alderman Mayne, Messrs. Murray, W. Brookes, John Markwell, Benjamin Brookes, Spence, J. Baynes, R. S. Watry, and Dowe."

The Victoria, colonial war steamer, and the transport brig Firefly, cleared the heads on Saturday afternoon, and proceeded on their voyage. Mr. Landsborough and his party, with their horses and equipments, are on board the last-named vessel. The expedition will consist of fifty white men, including the leader, and four blacks. The vessels will proceed to the Albert River, where Mr. Landsborough's party will land, and penetrate into the interior, in a south-westerly course, in search of Burke. This journey, it is calculated, will occupy about four months. Other excursions into the country lying along the coast will be undertaken, according as circumstances may render advisable, on the arrival of Mr. Walker's party overland from Rockhampton. It is supposed that the latter gentleman has started by this time, but until the Clarence arrive we shall not know for certain whether he has or not. Finally, after all the parties have made such journeys into the country along the coast as are practicable, the Victoria will bring Mr. Landsborough's party back to Brisbane, and Mr. Walker will return overland to Rockhampton, taking with him the horses of both expeditions. The return of the Victoria to Brisbane may be looked for in about six months hence. The Firefly, it is understood, will proceed from the Albert River to India. The organization of Mr. Landsborough's expedition even to the minutest particular was entrusted to the Surveyor-General, and as may be supposed, the equipment is very complete. All must wish that the expedition may be successful in discovering and rescuing Burke; but even should it unfortunately fail in this, it cannot but be productive of important scientific results. The Hotham (s.) will not now proceed on the expedition. There is a report that this Government is in treaty for her purchase with the intention of employing her as a river and harbour boat, &c. On the Thursday previous to leaving, the commander of the Victoria entertained a large party on board, including his Excellency the Governor and Lady Bowen, the Ministers, the Speaker, &c.

A case of suicide of a most painful nature occurred at Toowoomba on the 20th instant. A druggist of that place, named Charles Frederick Schulze, destroyed himself by taking an overdose of morphia. It appeared from a letter he had written with a direction that it should be opened after his death, that he was labouring under temporary insanity at the time. The jury took this view of the case in the verdict they returned.

We learn that the Telegraph line has been completed to the Queensland boundary on the New South Wales side, and that the survey of the line on this side has also reached the same point. As communication is now complete between this place and Toowoomba, and as the wires must by this time be stretched, or ready to be stretched, for a considerable distance beyond, it cannot be long, if ordinary diligence is used, before the line will be open throughout it whole length.

Shortly after the immigrant ship Mangerton anchored in the bay five of the crew deserted, taking with them the ship's gig.—Nothing was heard of them until Monday last, when it was discovered that they had been on Peel Island; that they had quarrelled there; that one of them put off in the night in the boat, and had not since been heard of nor had the boat been found; that another put off on a log or plank, and had not been seen afterwards. The three remaining men got off the island in safety. When the above particulars became known the tide surveyor stationed at Lytton, dispatched the Customs boat in search of the missing men, but the chance of finding them is not very great—especially the one that boldly launched himself on a log—as it came on to blow hard almost immediately after. It would be well if seamen unacquainted with the bay, could be made to understand the dangers they encounter in thus recklessly launching themselves upon its waters. They run the risk of being starved to death on its wide and unfrequented shores before relief is likely to reach them, even supposing they escaped being massacred by the blacks.

The following paragraph is from a Brisbane paper:—

"GOLD ON THE BURDEKIN.—We have the best authority for stating that one of the passengers by the Buonaparte, for Port Denison, goes to that district with a view of digging for gold on the Burdekin. The individual, who had long been engaged in mining in Victoria, was one of a party who some months since made an overland journey to the Burdekin. In travelling through the country, near the banks of that river, he observed such indications as induced him to test a prospect or two, and the results proved so satisfactory as to determine him to return, fully provided with means to give the spot a fair trial. Should his efforts be crowned with success, we shall be prepared, at the proper time, to give particulars as to the locality and the nature of the field

He was sure it came with a very bad grace from the promoters of the movement, while Governor Browne remained among them, but no doubt, in his Excellency's absence, it would be a very proper thing to welcome Sir George Grey. (Applause.) For his part, however, he did not agree with what had been said about Sir George Grey. He (Sir George) never had done any good to the colony; he had robbed right and left, and took the funds raised from the sale of private property, and appropriated them to public purposes. (Cheers, and laughter.) That was his opinion of Sir George Grey; and therefore, if an address was to be presented to him, let it be after Governor Browne had gone away: at present it was altogether out of place. It had been stated that Sir George Grey was the man to solve the native question. Don't believe a word of it. (Hear, and laughter.) He would tell them of a question that had arisen between Sir George Grey and William King, about the disputed block of land at the Waitara, for Sir George had also been at Taranaki. (Hear.) Well, when Sir George Grey was once at Taranaki, William King came to him and said, "I am coming to settle on this Waitara land." Sir George Grey said,—"If you do, I will bring my soldiers and drive you off." Two or three years after that conversation Sir George Grey went again to Taranaki, and William King came to him and said—"I am here on the Waitara land. You said you would bring your soldiers and drive me off; you did not; you are a lying Governor." (Interruption.) He was willing to give the name of his informant to the meeting if it was required. He mentioned that to show the kind of man who was to succeed Governor Browne. When he was here before he left the problem as he found it, to be solved by some one else; he was unable to solve it: and then, when Governor Browne was in a position to carry out his intentions, and effectually pacify the country, Sir George Grey—as men of his character always did—wrote home to the imperial authorities offering his services, saying "I am the man for the occasion; send me." (Great cheering.) He was coming here, and they were called on now to welcome him, and to cast a slight on Governor Browne. (Cheers, and cries of "No, no.") Let him be welcomed at a proper time, if they chose; but a man who robbed the fatherless and widows—(a voice—Widow Meurant)—would not be welcomed by him. (Interruptions.) He stated the truth. That very day purchasers of land at Newmarket, sold by Sir George Grey, were being served with legal notices, threatening proceedings if they entered on the properties bought by them at the Government sales. (Hear.) He begged the citizens of Auckland to think before they presented such an address. He knew there were many present who agreed with him, but whose tongues were kept still by policy. However, he could not consent to the resolution being unanimously carried, and would therefore move, as an amendment, "That this address be not prepared until his Excellency Governor Browne has left the colony." (Hear, and applause.)

After a short pause, his Honor the Superintendent said, as the amendment had not been seconded, he would put the resolution to the meeting. This he was about to do, when

Mr. Clark, jun., inquired whether the promoters of the movement had any address to submit to the meeting. That was an important consideration, for they should know what the address was to express before they committed themselves to it.

His Honor, after consultation, said it was proposed to appoint a committee to draw up an address. It would, therefore, be in the hands of the meeting to name their own committee. With regard to the amendment proposed by Mr. Robinson, but which had not been seconded, he might observe that Sir George Grey came under peculiar circumstances. It was usual, in most instances, for one governor to have taken his departure before his successor arrived. In this case, Governor Browne had received instructions from the Duke of Newcastle to await the arrival of Sir George Grey, which had also occurred when he was appointed to succeed Governor Fitzroy. It was, therefore, evident that the preparation of an address could not be postponed until after the departure of Governor Browne.

After a good deal of angry discussion and recrimination, Mr. F. White proposed, as an amendment,—"That this meeting fully concurs in the wish expressed in the resolution just read, that it is right and proper that steps ought to be taken to receive Sir George Grey, worthy of the man; but at the same time, that it solemnly protests against any action being taken for that purpose until measures are also taken to give public expression by the people of Auckland of their approval of the administration of his Excellency T. Gore Browne."

Mr. Robinson.—I withdraw my amendment, in favour of Mr. White's. (Hear.)

Mr. A. Clark.—In assenting to the withdrawal of Mr. Robinson's amendment, I beg leave to second the amendment proposed by Mr. White. (Hear.)

His Honor then put the amendment, and a show of hands was taken, when nearly the entire meeting voted in its favour. The original resolution was then put, when about twenty hands were held up, amidst laughter and hisses.

His Honor said: Gentlemen, I declare to the meeting that the amendment is carried. (Cheers.)

Another lull took place in the proceedings. A person in the body of the hall inquired what the delay was for, when his Honor the Superintendent, who was looking at a few documents on the table, said a number of resolutions had been placed before him, and he was waiting to see if any gentleman came forward to propose them. (Loud cries of "adjourn.")

Mr. Forsaith rose and said: When will these steps be taken? (Hisses.) It is left indefinite by the amendment. I will offer no opposition to bringing up such a resolution now, or on a future day I do not know but the majority of the people will unite to welcome Sir George Grey—(cries of "No, no"); that, having agreed as to the approval of Governor Browne's policy, they will unite to welcome Sir George Grey. (Interruptions.) Then when am I to understand that these steps will be taken? (Renewed interruptions.)

Mr. Clark, junior, moved that the meeting do now adjourn, the feeling being nearly unanimous on the inexpediency of taking any steps at this juncture to welcome Sir George Grey. (Cheers.)

The motion for adjournment was seconded amidst loud cheers.

The meeting was then declared adjourned; three ringing cheers being given for his Excellency Governor Browne. There was very considerable excitement among the people when they separated; congratulations and shaking hands being general.

In noticing the results of this meeting, the New Zealander remarks:—

Auckland, it appears, is always to be divided against itself. Every public question, no matter how great or how small its importance, is always to be discussed on party grounds, and determined by party action. A compliment to a departing governor cannot be paid without a vulgar "row," in which the gracefulness and good-will of the offering is seriously damaged; nor can preparation be made to receive her Majesty's representative with becoming and loyal courtesy on his daily expected arrival at Auckland, without evoking such passion as can, we feel assured, afford no gratification to the gentleman on whose behalf it was displayed, and as will certainly not tend much to efface from Sir George Grey's mind the recollections of the injustice of which so large a section in Auckland was guilty towards him in times past. Every judicious man will, we think, regret the very determined proceedings which were taken by the frantic leaders of the war party, to frustrate the objects of those gentlemen at whose instance the meeting on Tuesday last was convened. Governor Browne may well pray to be saved from such friends, and the interests of Auckland will need to be guarded with care against the foolishness of such citizens. We confess that we are wholly at a loss to understand why an address of welcome should not be presented to Sir George Grey on his arrival here; if his landing were to take place at Wellington or at Canterbury, we can very well imagine the warmth and enthusiasm of the reception which would certainly await him at either place—nor can we understand why such an address as that which was intended to be proposed must necessarily be taken to be an implied censure on Governor Browne. It is but a slender reputation which could not bear so slight a shock, and those men who, on the occasion to which we refer, used his Excellency's name so recklessly for party purposes do not deserve, perhaps they do not pretend to be ranked amongst his friends. A greater blunder, in whatever light it is regarded, could not have been made.

A garrison ball upon an extensive scale, which was got up with an unusual degree of magnificence, was given on the evening of the 15th, by Lieutenant-General Cameron, C.B., and the officers of the army quartered in the Province of Auckland, as a farewell tribute to Mrs. Gore Browne. The saloon created for the occasion, and which was got up like a bower of fairy land, was the most gay and glittering ball room ever yet seen in Auckland. The refreshment rooms were in equal keeping, and the mess room groaned beneath the multiplicity of savoury viands provided for a most recherche supper. The invitations were numerous, and the rooms were crowded, the Governor and Mrs. Browne arriving at an early hour. At twelve o'clock General Cameron conducted Mrs. Browne to the Banquet Hall, which then presented a truly dazzling appearance. That refection over, a bumper was called for the guest of the evening, whose health and prosperity, in conjunction with that of his Excellency, was proposed by the General in telling soldierly style, and responded to amidst the acclamations of the surrounding visitors. The orchestral arrangements harmonised with all the rest—the bands of the 65th and 14th Regiments relieving each other, and playing through a lengthened programme till the streaks in the east gave the signal to retire.

STOCK AND SHARE MARKET.

There has been the usual amount of business done in the share market this week. Joint Stock and New South Wales Bank shares are upon the advance. [MR. BREWSTER.]

Stations.—The demand for good sheep properties is steady. Cattle stations are not easily disposed of, unless such runs as are suitable for re-stocking with sheep, and of a fattening character.

Store Cattle.—There is no improvement to notice, and the only demand is for cattle suitable for northern stations—say equal sexes 1 to 6 or 2 to 7, which are offered at 27s 6d to 30s per head, or 40s if delivered at Rockhampton. At these prices I have several lots on hand.

Store Sheep.—Very few breeding sheep in the market; for such, however, delivered after shearing, the price asked is 11s to 12s; maiden ewes, 14s to 15s; and wethers, 9s per head.

CATTLE CIRCULAR.

[PITT AND SULLIVAN.]

The market is glutted with middling cattle, which has caused a fall in price. None but really good will bring a figure. We quote best quality, £5; middling, £3.

The sheep market is not so firm, on account of different lots coming in. Although only fair, which have been sold from 11s to 15s, we quote first-class wethers worth 18s.

30th August.

LABOUR MARKET.

[HAIGH AND BROWN.]

Our market is well attended by a numerous class of applicants for situations, viz., mechanics, agriculturists, domestic servants, &c. There is also an improved demand for labour; female servants of experience and good character readily obtain situations. The rates of wages are follow, viz.:—Married farm and domestic servants, £45 to £60; ploughmen and stockmen, £30 to £35; farm and garden labourers, £30 to £32; grooms and coachmen, £35 to £50; blacksmiths and carpenters, £52 to £80; surveyors' men, £40 to £50; roadmakers, £45; shepherds, £28 to £30; shepherding families, £55 to £70; female servants, £20 to £30.

HORSE MARKET.

Mr. Charles Martyn reports there is nothing new to report concerning the horse market this week. The sales have not exhibited much briskness, owing to the continued scarcity of fresh young stock. The demand for strong, serviceable hackneys, and all kinds of strong harness horses is good, and their prices without alteration.

Messrs. Burt and Co. notice a brisk demand for useful horses throughout the past week. Anything ready for immediate work has been sold without difficulty; light harness horses going from £12 to £28 5s; superior gig horses as high as £40; hackneys, from £10 to £38 10s; heavy draughts, £20 to £42. A batch of eighteen young horses from the Horsley stud, sold in the Camperdown Yards, went from £8 to £15.

Mr. S. Wooller reports the horse market has shown greater activity this week than for some time past. Several lots of country horses have arrived, and were sold at advanced prices; the supply, however, is not adequate to the demand, and really good young sound horses, fit for saddle and gig purposes, are much wanted, and would sell at good prices; inferior and unsound stock are not wanted. Prices may be quoted as last week.

SYDNEY MARKETS.—Friday.

MAITLAND MARKETS.

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

Friday Morning.—Trade generally has been rather more brisk this week, although the state of the country still prevents many persons who otherwise would come to town for supplies from doing so, and some of the storekeepers still complain of trade being dull. The millers also complain of dulness. Business is principally confined to the retail trade. No alterations have taken place in the prices of the principal articles, the changes in the Sydney markets not having affected Maitland. Carriage, plentiful. Weather still dull and unsettled.

Flour.—The flour market presents very little animation. Large parcels have changed hands under the wholesale quotations, which remain £20 per ton for fine, and £18 for seconds. Retail prices are unaltered.

Wheat.—Scarcely any transactions have taken place in wheat. Great dulness prevails. It may be quoted at 5/ to 5/6 per bushel.

Maize.—A few samples of maize have changed hands, at 3/6 to 3/10 per bushel. Good dry maize will realise 4/.

Bran is very scarce. Stocks are light. Large orders could not be executed at present. Both it and pollard readily realise £5 10/ to £6 per ton.

Hay is becoming more plentiful. Speculation is not so active as formerly. Hay of the best quality will realise £6 10/ per ton.

Green food may be quoted at 1/ per dozen bundles wholesale, 1/3 retail.

Poultry.—Fowls are quoted, wholesale, at 1/6 per pair, retail 2/ to 2/6; ducks wholesale 2/ to 2/6 per pair, 3/ to 3/6 retail; geese 5/ to 5/6 per pair wholesale, 6/6 retail; turkeys 5/ o 7/ per pair wholesale, 6/ to 9/ retail.

Vegetables.—Potatoes 11/ to 12/ per cwt. wholesale, 12/ to 14/ retail; pumpkins 4/ to 5/ per dozen wholesale, /6 to 1/ each retail; turnips 3/ to 4/ per dozen bunches wholesale, /4 to /5 per bunch retail; onions 10/ to 12/ per cwt. wholesale, /3 per lb. retail; cabbages 2/ to 4/ wholesale, /3 to /6 retail.

Fruit.—Apples (scarce) 18 to £1 per case wholesale, 1/6 to 2/ per dozen retail; oranges 4 to /6d per dozen wholesale, /6 to 1/ retail; lemons (no Lisbons) /2 to /6 per dozen wholesale, /4 to /9 retail; grammas (scarce) 6 to 4/ per dozen wholesale, /4 to /8 each retail.

Farm and Dairy Produce.—Butter 1/4 to 1/8 per lb. wholesale, 1/8 to 2/3 per lb. retail; lard /5 to 6 per lb. wholesale, /8 to /9 retail; cheese /4 to /5 per lb. wholesale, /6 to /8 retail; honey /4 to /5 per lb. wholesale, /6 to /8 retail; eggs /7 to /9 per dozen wholesale, 10 to 1/ per dozen retail.

Tallow is not quite so firm, and is quoted at £33 to £35 per ton wholesale; soap 3¾ per cwt. wholesale, 4½ to /5 per lb. retail; candles /6 per lb. wholesale, 7½ retail.

Leather Market.—Sydney kip leather 2/ to 2/3 per lb.; Maitland kip leather 2/ per lb.; Sydney sole leather 1/4 per lb.; Maitland sole leather, 1/ to 1/4 per lb.; calfskins, 5/ to 6/ per lb.; basils, 15/ to 18/ per dozen; harness leather, 1/3 to 1/4 per lb. Hides, 6 to 13/, according to quality.

MAITLAND STATION AND STOCK MARKET.

[THOMAS CADELL.]

Stations.—Several transactions pending. Sheep properties still in demand.

Fat Cattle.—Market supplied. Owing to the competition among butchers, the price of meat has been lowered, and, consequently, cattle can only be sold at reduced rates. Quotations—Good to prime, £3 10s to £4 10s; middle to fair, £2 15s to £3 5s. The trade will only buy for present consumption. Prime picked yards of cattle may realise over above rates in some instances.

Fat Sheep.—Market fully supplied. Trade here are only purchasers of small lots, as the sale of mutton is restricted by the low price of beef. Quotations: Good to prime wethers, full fleeced, 16s to 17s, according to weight and quality; middle to fair, 13s to 15s.

Store Cattle.—Dull of sale.

Store Sheep.—Large lots will change hands after shearing. Prices unaltered.

Horses.—Good hacks are in demand.

Wool.—The first of the new clip will soon be in the market, when prices will in some measure be tested.

Tallow.—Beef, £38 per ton.

Hides.—Dull of sale. Prime heavy, well cured, 12s to 13s.

Sheepskins.—7d to 8d per lb.

[DODDS AND CO.]

This market has been much better supplied this week than for some time past, with cattle of very fair quality which went off at about an average of £4 per head. There is every prospect of an abundant supply of fat cattle this summer.

Fat sheep are plentiful, several flocks having arrived together. Owing to the continued wet weather they appear to have suffered a good deal.

Stock and draught horses, as well as first-class working bullocks are enquired after, but buyers are not disposed to give very high prices.

A moderate amount of business has been transacted in the share market this week, and the prices of our several securities have been well maintained. There has been rather more inquiry for bank shares, and the prices of the shares of the Australian Joint Stock Bank and Bank of New South Wales have an upward tendency. Commercial Bank shares are also firm at quotations. Steam shares continue firm, and the late advance in prices has been established. In the shares of the Coal Companies, with the exception of the Tomago Mine, there has been nothing doing, in consequence of the strike, and how this may affect the prices of these shares has not yet been shown, holders being unwilling to sell except at full rates. The following are the prices at which sales have been made during the week:—Commercial Bank, £45 per share; Bank of New South Wales, £35 per share; Australian Joint Stock Bank, £10 10s. and £10 12s. 6d. per share; Australasian Steam Navigation Company, £26 per share; Clarence and Richmond River Steam Navigation Company, £11 10s. per share; Illawarra Steam Navigation Company, £4 10s. per share; General Assurance Company, £8 10s. per share; New South Wales Marine Assurance Company, £3 per share; Tomago Coal Company, £5 per share.

Debentures.—Government debentures are firm, but no transactions have taken place this week. Colonial Sugar Refining Company's debentures due in 1862 to 1866 have changed hands at an average of 2¼ to 3 per cent. premium and interest; Australasian Steam Navigation Company's debentures due in 1864 have been sold at one per cent. premium.

A special general meeting of the shareholders of the Australian Joint Stock Bank was held this day at noon, when Messrs. J. Brewster and J. B. Rundle, were elected directors in the room of Messrs. Clark Irving and R. M. Robey, who had retired from the board of directors.

Crown Land Sales will be held next week at the following places: Bathurst, Monday, 2nd of September; Goulburn, Wednesday, 4th September; Grafton, 4th and 5th of September; Singleton, Gundagai, and Denison, on the 6th of September, and Maitland on the 7th September.

Business has been exceedingly dull during the week, and the few transactions that have taken place have been mostly to meet our present requirements. The inclemency of the weather and the bad state of the roads has no doubt partially caused this stagnation in trade, and prevented the few small orders for the country from being executed. At the commencement of the week there was a slight demand for goods for Otago, and two or three vessels were laid on for that port; but the excitement about the gold-fields appears to be of a very mild character, and persons appear unwilling to take any steps until more authentic news is to hand.

Flour.—The flour market is still very dull, and prices are nominally the same as last week. Adelaide is quoted at £16 to £16 10s. per ton; and California, £15 per ton. The millers' quotations are £17 for fine flour, and £15 for seconds.

Liquids.—Ale, in bulk, is dull of sale, and first brands will not command more than £7 12s. 6d. to £7 15s. Porter, in bulk, £5 15s. to £6. Bottled ale and porter are not so much in request, and prices have slightly given way; first brands are quoted at 9s. 6d. to 10s. 6d. Brandy is steady, and Martell's is worth from 11s. 3d. to 11s. 6d. Rum, there has been more inquiry for rum this week, and sales of 30 o.p. have taken place at 3s. 11d. to 4s.; 10 o.p., 3s. 2d. to 3s. 4d. Geneva is dull of sale, and has declined in price. First brands of low strengths and small quantities, are quoted at from 12s. 9d. to 13s. 6d. In wines there have been some large transactions. At auction, Mr. J. G. Cohen sold on Wednesday a considerable portion of the cargo of Cozen's sherries, ex Woodlark, at the following rates:—Single diamond, 6s. 7d., to 6s. 9d.; single grape, 6s. 6d.; OO, 7s. 8d.; double grape, 7s. 8d.; double diamond, 7s. 3d. to 7s. 9d.; treble diamond, 8s. 3d. to 8s. 4d.; OOO, 8s. 6d. to 9s. 2d; OS over A, Amontillado, 11s. 6d. Ex Oscar, Anchor, AMO Amontillado, 11s. 1d. 8 with O over A, finest Amontillado, 11s. 6d.

Teas.—There is very little alteration to notice in teas, and as holders do not appear desirous of forcing sales, prices are steady. Common congous are worth from £5 to £6 per chest; medium, £6 6s. to £6 15s.; superior, £7 to £8 per chest.

Sugars continue to maintain their prices, and a few small sales have been made at a slight advance. Mauritius sugars are quoted as follows: Brown, £36 to £38; yellow, £40 to £43; crystals, £43 10s. to £45 10s.; Dutch loaf sugar, £56 per ton. The Company's quotation is £60 per ton.

Coffee is a shade firmer. Manila is worth from 8¾d. to 9d. per lb. in bond; plantation, 10½d. to 11d. per lb. in bond.

Candles are very flat. Belmonts and Nevas, 15d. to 15½d. per lb.

Rice.—There is very little doing in this article. Patna is quoted at £17 10s. to £17 15s. per ton.

Salt.—Liverpool is dull of sale and worth about £5 per ton; fine salt, £4 to £4 5s. per ton; rock salt, £7 to £8 per ton.

Hops are firmer. 1859 have brought 2s. 0½d. and 1860 are held for 2s. 3d.

Oilmen's Stores are very dull of sale, and as there are large parcels in the market for sale, prices rule lower.

Tobacco.—Some few sales of negrohead have been made at high rates, say from 2s. 3d. to 2s. 6d.; cavendish, in parcels, from 1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d. Large sales have also been effected in Melbourne of outside brands, and inferior quality tobaccos, which, we hear, are likely to find their way to this port. The market for clean samples of all kinds is, however, very firm. The late speculation in the article, we understand, originates in a report per last mail, that the Secessionist Government had issued a law prohibiting the production of tobacco in the Virginian States, and ordering grain for food to be sown in its place.

Messrs. Durham and Irwin held their usual weekly produce sale this day.

Wool: Only a few odd lots in the grease were sold, thus—Locks (grease) 6½d, fleece (ditto) at 11d per lb. Sheepskins: About 3000 heavy skins were disposed of, at from 6½d to 8½d, pelts at from 2½d to 4½d per lb. Tallow: Prices are not so firm this week; 18 casks were sold at from £33 to £38. Hides: Prime heavy are readily bought up by the tanners. Over 400 fell to the hammer, thus—First quality at 15s 6d to 14s 6d, medium 11s, inferior and dry 1s to 8s 3d, calfskins at from 1s to 2s each. Horns at from 13s to 19s per 100. Shank Bones: 1 lot at £6 per ton.

Messrs. L. E. Threlkeld and Co. report having sold on the 28th and 29th instant, the whole of the stock in the assigned estate of Mr. William Barnett. The sale attracted a very large attendance on both days, a spirited competition existed, and the prices obtained were highly satisfactory. On many articles an advance upon recent rates was established. We give some of the prices below:—

Brown paper in 20 and 40 lbs., 3½d; loaf sugar, 55s per cwt.; ½-lb. mustard, 8s 9d per dozen; congou, ex Shakspere, £7 per chest; ditto, ex Marco Polo, £9 10s per chest; Crosse and Blackwell's Milton oysters, 10s 6d per dozen; Californian flour, £15 7s 6d per ton; candles, foreign light weight, 13½d per lb.; nutmegs, 28-lb. boxes, 33s 4d; Hill and Ledger's red cabbage, pints, 9s 3d per dozen; ditto sauce, half-pints, 5s 9d; Kemp's 1 lb. oysters, 10s 6d per dozen; Batty's pint Spanish olives, 11s 9d; Colman's light blue, 7½d per lb.; ditto dark, 1s 1d per lb.; Batty's quart vinegar, 9s per dozen; Wyatt's pint pickles, 8s per dozen; Coward's 1 lb. mustard, 9s per dozen; S. To the Editor of the Herald.

Sir,—I will not emulate "Antiphlebotomy" in choice of language, or in his imputation of sordid motives—"interested in keeping the public ignorant of its virtues," i. e., of the Turkish Bath. Perhaps "Antiphlebotomy" can show how medical men are to do this. As he himself points out, the bath is before the public, and the public need not be hindered from testing it by any doctors. As saith the old saw, "Good wine needs no bush." If the bath be the wondrous restorer of health it is represented, the disregard of any portion of the medical profession will be quite unimportant.

But, Mr. Editor, we admit the Turkish Bath to be a powerful agent, and, like other powerful agents, potent for harm as well as for good.

I have been consulted, as I know other physicians also in Sydney have been, by parties who affirmed the bath to have injured, and not benefited, them; and in my own cases there was ground for the belief. I do not say this to decry the bath, but simply to remind "Antiphlebotomy" that there may be two sides to a question, even though it affect the undoubted efficacy of the Turkish Bath.

"Antiphlebotomy" may be further reminded that I put no "gratuitous interpretation" on Dr. Brereton's letter. I simply stated how an insinuation in it would be generally understood; and it has been so understood.

As to renouncing the lancet, and "adopting the reformation which Dr. Brereton desires," I have yet to learn that rushing from one extreme to another is, of necessity, a reformation. In the opinion of competent observers, the guarded and judicious use of the lancet is a means of help in combating disease we are not warranted in wholly discarding. Its frequent careless, or profuse use, I as little agree with as "Antiphlebotomy" or Dr. Brereton, and whether in British or foreign hands.

My object in writing is not to open a prolonged and useless controversy, and doubtless you, Mr. Editor, and perhaps your readers, may be satisfied to hear no more on these topics from

THE COLLIERS' STRIKE.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sir,—As you have devoted several leaders to the strike now unhappily existing at Newcastle, and evidently feel inclined to take a one-sided view of the affair, I hope you will allow me, through your columns, to defend myself and fellow-miners from the charges which you have brought against us.

Now, Sir, you state that the miners place great reliance upon artificial scarcity, and that to secure this object very numerous and, in many instances, tyrannical regulations are in force. Now, I can only answer this by saying that nothing is farther from the truth. Then, again, your statement about the government of the body is subject to very great qualification indeed; but again you say the present strike, although nominally a question of wages, is in reality a question of domination. But how does that correspond with the proposed reduction of 20 per cent.?

And, again, if it be a question of domination, and if the coal proprietors have only half so good a case against the miners as you represent, why do they not tell us plainly what is the cause of dispute? And it certainly appears strange that, in your attempts to lay the case before the public, you have entirely overlooked the public statements of the miners, to the effect that they are prepared to prove that such a case does not exist.

Now, Sir, your statement that 11s. 4d. per day is the amount allowed to be earned, is correct, but how do you arrive at the conclusion that this regulation has had an injurious tendency, either upon the miners, the coal proprietors, or the public, while the quantity of coal in demand has not been sufficient to realise an average wage of £2 per week to the number of miners in the district. But then you say that, notwithstanding this limitation on the production of coal, it seems that the object was not sufficiently secured, and in order to reduce the quantum produced, the committee issued their order that no man should earn more than 5s. 5d. per day. Here again, you shew that you are ignorant of the subject you are writing upon, because the committee issued no orders, and any arrangement existing, or that may exist under the union, must be the decision of the body, and further that the 11s. 4d. per day remains unaltered in the rules of our Association to this day, and while it exists, no other amount can be entertained as a rule; but your informant must either have tried to deceive you, or it would have been stated that after the coal-proprietors gave notice of 20 per cent. reduction, the miners at the various collieries (in anticipation that the proprietors would endeavour to raise as much coal during the working of that notice as possible), mutually agreed to produce half of the maximum day's work, and that this arrangement was made and worked upon before ever the committee met to deliberate on the subject at all, or even any communication had passed between the various collieries; so unanimous was the feeling amongst the miners that an imposition was being practised upon them.

Now, again, Sir, you must form a very low estimate of the miners as a class when you suppose that they are not able to understand that the better the trade is supplied, the better it is for their interests and the interests of all concerned; and, instead of our maximum day's wage operating against the interests of the trade in any shape, can you refer to any previous period when such a regular steady supply of coal could be depended upon coming into the market as has been since the adoption of 11s. 4d. as the maximum day's wage. And your remarks about the stocking of coal, and the companies not being in a position to supply any rush of trade that may come, in consequence of this regulation, are worth little more than the paper they are printed upon, and any person that has given any attention to the coal trade will treat them as such, for it is well known we are in a position to supply any amount of trade that ever visits the port, and to talk of stocking coal to supply the trade is simply ridiculous, as it is well known that coal deteriorates so much in value by being stocked that even supposing the coal stocked to be required to supply a rush of trade, that it must ultimately tend to injure the trade for the future.

Then, again, in answer to the assertion that the miners have limited the supply in order to raise their wages, I would state that we hold our annual meetings on the Queen's Birth-day (being a general holiday) for the special purpose of not interrupting the supply, and that we have asked no advance of wages since the formation of the Union, or the alleged limitation of production. Now in Saturday's leader you make special reference to the manner in which the A. A. Company have been treated, and although I am not prepared to enter into all the particulars of their case in this letter, I may state that they could not take away the amount of coal the men were willing to send while at work, and have been but very irregularly employed for some months, although their manager advertised in Melbourne sometime ago for from fifty to 100 miners to come to the district, while he had actually far more on the works than he had trade to employ at the day's work complained of, and that is more than a considerable number of men are able to obtain.

Again, as you particularly refer to Joseph Holmes in the matter, I should simply notice it as something remarkable, that while you assume the conduct of the miners' union to ignorance of what injures their own interest—that the managers generally select the most ignorant men they can find amongst them to do anything that they suppose to be opposed to the wishes of the body; and I must say that the selection of Joseph Holmes in that case fully bears me out in my opinion.

In conclusion, allow me to say that I think the justice of our cause will be a sufficient apology for my attacking your leaders; and hoping you will give this a corner in your paper, and be kind enough to attribute any imperfections to the fact of its being only

A VOICE FROM THE MINE.

ON THE CULTIVATION OF SILK IN NEW SOUTH WALES.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sir,—In a former communication I stated I had good hopes that measures would soon be taken to carry out my suggestions on the above interesting subject. After a considerable deal of trouble and much disappointment in endeavouring to rouse the public spirit of individuals I thought likely to assist, I at length called on Mr. T. S. Mort, who at once entered warmly on the project. He, I believe, also met with little success from the assistance of others; but now I am happy to say, through his instrumentality, the first and most important step has been made by forming a plantation of some thousands of plants of the morus multicaulis on the grounds of the Destitute Children's Asylum at Randwick, where it is intended to form an establishment to promote and encourage the cultivation of silk. I do not think the locality by any means a good one; but, as I understand from Mr. Mort that it is intended to train the children belonging to the Asylum in the knowledge of the management of the silk-worm, and so make them more generally useful when they leave the establishment, and besides by commencing at the Asylum there is the ground to plant the mulberry trees, a large and convenient room for feeding, &c., and the labour of the children free of expense, three very important items, and which will perhaps counterbalance to a certain extent the disadvantage of a situation so exposed to the sea air (detrimental to the silk-worm), and not a good soil for a crop of leaves; for although the varieties of the mulberry will in this country grow almost anywhere, yet to obtain an abundant crop of leaves they require a strong loamy or clayey soil.

In trying to introduce into the country the production of a new article of commerce like silk, many difficulties are to be expected—among others ignorance, prejudice, and apathy, from those who are sought to be benefited, are the most trying, and it is only by perseverance of no ordinary kind one is likely to succeed.

I am anxious, now that a mulberry plantation has been commenced, to obtain a healthy and good description of silkworm, the one now in the colony is of the best sort and similar to the one reared in the southern parts of Europe; but from improper food and treatment it is much degenerated, and will take one or two seasons to restore to its original state; for this purpose I have collected a considerable quantity of eggs, and having the command of a sufficient number of trees of the proper sort I am desirous, if properly supported, to not only feed and carefully tend a sufficient number of silkworms during the present season, but also to note all the changes they go through before spinning and any other matter worthy of attention for the benefit of the establishment referred to, as well as for general information; and this is a very necessary matter to be attended to, for even supposing eggs were imported from the south of France or Italy they would, no doubt, to a certain extent be affected by the change of season from the northern to the southern hemisphere, and possibly by the climate, and in the end we should not get a better sort of silkworm than the one already in the colony.

One of the difficulties I have frequently heard expressed has been in reference to reeling the silk from the cocoon. Silk growers need not be reelers; they can dry and sell their cocoons unwound, or even export them to Europe in bales, where they can be reeled off fit for any texture required; but I understand that not only will a competent reeler be engaged from Europe, but also a machine for reeling of the most improved description imported from England for the Randwick establishment, where the cocoons could be sold or reeled off, and the establishment would ultimately prove more beneficial for reeling the cocoons produced elsewhere than for the cultivation of silk on the land attached to it; other difficulties experience only will do away with, they being more imaginary than real; but I am sanguine enough to hope that the day is not far distant when the cultivation of silk will be generally recognised as an important and valuable article of produce for our Australian farmers to attend to.

I feel much gratified that I have been the means of drawing attention to this subject. I have been actuated by no motives of self-interest, and I have stated nothing but what full information will confirm. I did hope I should have met with more encouragement than I have. As it is, I feel assured that all my endeavours would have been fruitless had I not been fortunate enough to interest Mr. Mort: I had no influence myself. Mr. Mort has, as well as the means to carry out any project of the kind, also the will, and if any credit is due to me for starting the idea, an equal, if not a greater share is due to Mr. Mort for having exerted himself so far to carry it out.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

JOHN M. BATE.

THE PRINCE CONSORT ON THE FORTHCOMING INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

(From the Times, June 7.)

Yesterday evening, his Royal Highness the Prince Consort presided at the meeting of the Society of Arts in the Hall, John-street, Adelphi. The paper, which was read by Mr. William Hawes, was "On the International Exhibition of 1862." The announcement that his Royal Highness would occupy the chair attracted an audience which crowded the hall.

Mr. Hawes having read a very interesting paper,

Earl Granville said he had been informed that it would be acceptable if he would make a few observations. When he recollected the part his Royal Highness took in the Exhibition of 1851, and looked at the circumstances under which they were assembled that night, he (the speaker) was almost disposed to put in a claim for being ten years younger than he was. (Laughter and cheers.) He might say for the Commissioners, that they had rather come to learn than to teach. Speaking of the Commissioners—for he thought it was likely they would know one another's mind's—he considered it very gratifying that, with the exception of one point, they agree with the principles laid down in the paper. The exception to which he referred was that of prizes. This point had engaged their serious attention, and it was one on which they had not entirely made up their minds. They wished to be guided by the opinions of gentlemen in the various trades, and they also desired to be guided by the wishes of foreigners. In the admirable address to which they had just listened there was one point which had particularly struck him, and that was the amount of opposition which the Exhibition of 1851 had encountered before its success had been manifested. They had experienced so much concord with regard to the forthcoming Exhibition that he had become a little alarmed that the opposition they had met with was scarcely strong enough to keep them up to the mark. (Cheers and laughter.) The opposition had been of a friendly character, and had chiefly referred to the building. He thought, however, that those who had been present at the opening of the Horticultural Garden that day would be convinced that they were likely to see in the Exhibition a building worthy of the occasion. (Cheers.) He was not aware that there was any obstacle, or what was vulgarly called a hitch, with regard to the great undertaking. The feeling concerning the Exhibition which was being manifested in the great centres of trade was most satisfactory. The support which had been accorded in the metropolis was most gratifying. The colonies were also coming forward with their contributions. He had had a communication with Lord Canning touching the efforts which India was making. Though the funds at the disposal of the authorities were not so large as could be desired, yet he believed India would be worthily represented in the Exhibition. From other countries he had received assurances which, though they differed in degree, were satisfactory. He had lately been in Paris, and he found that a commission, over which Prince Napoleon presided, had been originated, and he had been informed that the Emperor desired that no expense should be spared in promoting the success of the French portion of the Exhibition. Notwithstanding some feelings of Protectionism which might operate in the mass, his (Lord Granville's) opinion was that there was some danger, owing to the great exertion the French were making, that if we did not try to put our right leg foremost, we might not be able maintain the position which we occupied in the last Exhibition. (Applause.) The Commissioners were highly gratified in seeing his Royal Higness presiding. (Cheers.) He was sure that if it had not been for the courage, industry, and ability of his Royal Highness, the Exhibition of 1851 would have been an utter failure. A very general question asked in France was, "Do the Queen and the Prince Consort really take a deep interest in the Exhibition of 1862?" He was sure that the presence of his Royal Highness was conclusive that he felt as deep an interest in the Exhibition of 1862 as he had taken in the Exhibition of 1851. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. Dillon, in a very effective speech, referred to the great interest with which the coming Exhibition was universally regarded. No man and no nation could be said to be indifferent to its success. There was an essential difference between the Exhibition of 1851 and and that of 1862. The first was an untried experiment, while the other was a sober and matured attempt to make such exhibitions periodical and of frequent occurrence. He tendered his grateful thanks to his Royal Highness for the great services he had rendered towards the development of what he (Mr. Dillon) regarded as likely to be a most successful venture. (Hear.)

Sir Thomas Phillips also congratulated the meeting upon the present position and prospects of the proposed Exhibition, and, as the organ of the Council, passed a high eulogium upon the Prince Consort, and expressed his grateful thanks for the assistance his Royal Highness had rendered on every possible occasion.

The Prince Consort then spoke as follows;—Gentlemen, after having heard the interesting observations that have fallen from the gentlemen who have addressed you, it is not my intention now to trouble you with any lengthened remarks of my own. Lord Granville has referred to the fact of my presence here giving you an evidence of my interest in the success of the coming Exhibition of 1862. I should be sorry to lead you to form, as it were, by inference, a conclusion from my presence alone that I take that interest; and I wish you to hear from my own mouth that I do take that interest. (Loud cheers.) Sir Thomas Phillips has been kind enough to refer to what I have done with regard to this matter. Gentlemen, whatever I have done to start you in the right road I have done with great willingness and pleasure. I assure you it is a true privation to me to be prevented by the avocations and duties of my position from giving the same amount of time and labour to the forthcoming Exhibition that I was privileged to give to the one that preceeded it. (Cheers.) Gentlemen, you will succeed. You are in earnest, and being in earnest you will succeed. (Cheers.) I can congratulate you on the steps you have taken; you have an able body of managers, with all of whom I am well acquainted, and from my acquaintance I can say that they are thoroughly conversant with all the work you have imposed on them. (Hear, hear.) You have also an able architect—a young officer of engineers—who, as alluded to by Lord Granville, has to-day shown by the work which has been opened in the Horticultural Gardens that he is capable of vast designs, novel contrivances, and is possessed of great taste. (Hear, hear.) Gentlemen, Lord Granville and Sir Thomas Phillips have referred to foreign nations. I happen to know that foreign nations look with favour upon this Exhibition, and are prepared to come to measure their strength with yours. I need not repeat the warning and encouragement that Lord Granville has thrown out to the trades of this country, that they should endeavour to maintain the position they so gloriously took on the last occasion. (Cheers.) Gentlemen, the duty I have now to perform is a short and pleasing one. I ask you to return your thanks to Mr. Hawes for the able and valuable paper he has read. It has contained a very comprehensive review of all the points which it is important for us to consider with regard to the great undertaking before us. He has expressed his hopes of the success of this undertaking, based on what I believe to be a perfectly true picture of what the gratifying progress of this nation has been. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. Hawes briefly returned thanks, and his Royal Highness declared the proceedings closed amid loud cheers.

Had some of our gallants been with the Israelites in the Wilderness, when for forty years their clothes waxed not old, they would have been vexed, though their clothes were whole, to have been so long in one fashion.

BRISBANE WATER.

ONE THOUSAND ACRES OF LAND, well known as the selection of Mr. Surveyor Richards, situate on Cockle Creek, about three miles from Anderson's Point (where the steamers call), and about five miles from the steam wharf at Gosford.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on MONDAY, 2nd September, at 11 o'clock,

All that parcel of land, containing by admeasurement ONE THOUSAND ACRES, situate on COCKLE CREEK, BRISBANE WATER, being well known as J. B. Richards' grant.

☞ This extensive block of land has a large frontage to Cockle Bay, and adjoins Spears' 60-acre, Campbell's 300-acre, and Humphrey's 100-acre grants. It was an early selection by Mr. Richards, prior to any land being taken up in the neighbourhood, and consequently, having a thorough knowledge of the country, he selected the finest land in the locality. It is well watered, and from its proximity to Sydney, and convenience of communication, it is well adapted for subdivision into small farms, for which there is good demand in the immediate neighbourhood.

Steamers leave Sydney once a week, and call within about three miles from the estate. There is also constant communication by the sailing traders.

It will be positively sold, to close a joint account, on the above date, and an inspection is invited prior to the sale, which will be found well worthy the attention of speculators and others.

BURWOOD.

Newly-erected Cottage Residence, with upwards of four acres of land, near the Railway Station, known as Reynold's property.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from the mortgagee to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Bank-buildings, George-street, on MONDAY, 9th September, at 11 o'clock,

All that piece of land, being lots 10 and 11 of the Burwood estate, containing 4 acres and 37 perches, having a frontage of about 440 feet to Driver's Road, and bounded on one side by the railway fence, on which there is erected a remarkably neat well-finished cottage residence, built of weatherboards, containing verandah, hall, drawing and dining rooms, three bedrooms, storeroom, kitchen, &c.

☞ The locality of the above is one of the best in this very popular and healthy suburb, and the cottage, which has only recently been completed by Mr. Reynolds, is a comfortable family residence, finished with great taste. The property will be positively sold on the above date.
Terms at sale.

NEW ENGLAND DISTRICT.

To Breeders of Horse Stock and others.

That compact Station known as
adjoining the well-known station of Mr. Loder's, called Callagan Swamp, and barely 25 miles from the Hanging Rock Diggings, together with the numerous improvements, and about
600 HEAD of CATTLE, more or less
200 HEAD of choice HORSE STOCK, more or less, now depasturing thereon.
For positive sale.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on TUESDAY, 15th October next, at 11 o'clock,

The above choice and compact pastoral property.

TOGGOLO occupies a large area of well grassed country, and is abundantly supplied with water, which has never been known to fail in the driest season. Its grazing capabilities are very large—fully equal to about 1500 head of cattle—and, from the natural features of the country, it possesses the advantage of being equally good as a winter run as in summer.

The improvements comprise a capital dwelling-house, containing six rooms, with large garden well stocked with fruit trees, and securely enclosed by a substantial four-rail fence; three cultivation paddocks, stockyard, milking yard, stockmen's hut, barn, pigsties. There are also two additional stockyards out on the run, for the convenience of working the stock.

The stock comprises about
600 HEAD of CATTLE, more or less, a mixed herd, ranging from 2 to 7 years old, and 200 HEAD of HORSE STOCK, more or less, all bred from choice mares of good quality, picked for the purpose.

 Both cattle and horse stock will be mustered and delivered.

☞ Particular attention is directed to the above sale, as affording one of the best opportunities which has occurred for acquiring an extensive and valuable run in the famed district of New England, with only a very limited number of profitable stock on it; its close proximity to an important gold-field, it being scarcely 25 miles from the productive Hanging Rock mines—with their ready and incessant markets for its produce, points it out as the most desirable and profitable small compact station property which has been offered in the market for bona fide sale for some time.
Terms, liberal.

BRISBANE WATER.

FIRST-CLASS AGRICULTURAL and DAIRY PROPERTY, known as YARRAMALONG FARM, situated on the WYONG CREEK, BRISBANE WATER, about twenty miles from GOSFORD, containing about 843 ACRES of AGRICULTURAL LAND.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from the MORTGAGEE, to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on MONDAY, 30th September, at 11 o'clock,

All that piece or parcel of land situated in the county of Northumberland, in the parish of BRISBANE WATER, bounded on the north by the waters of WYONG CREEK, to which it has a considerable frontage, and containing by admeasurement 843 acres, more or less, and known as YARRAMALONG FARM, together with the numerous and substantial improvements thereon, comprising COMFORTABLE HOMESTEAD, containing hall, dining and sitting rooms, three bedrooms, and store, with detached kitchen, yard enclosed with paling fence; barn, stable, corn-shed, stock-yard, milking shed, calf pen, and other buildings, &c.

 These are of a substantial order, have not been long erected.

Adjoining the house is a capital garden, securely enclosed, of more than half an acre in extent, well stocked with fruit trees and vines.

The land, which is of first-rate quality for agricultural purposes, is subdivided into numerous cultivation and other paddocks, strongly fenced. It is well watered by the never-failing WYONG CREEK, besides several permanent lagoons in various parts of the estate.

Of the whole block of 843 acres, about 500 ARE REALLY FIRST-CLASS AGRICULTURAL LAND, and that which has already been brought under the plough has yielded MAGNIFICENT RETURNS.

☞ As an agricultural property, Yarramalong Farm is, without exception, one of the best estates which have been offered in the market for a long time, as it is well known to be one of the earliest, and acknowledged to be one of the best selections of the district. Its soil is of a very rich nature, and bears favourable comparison with the far-famed lands of the Hunter and Hawkesbury rivers. Situated in the midst of an industrious and thriving population, and within twenty miles of Gosford, giving its produce WATER CARRIAGE TO THE SYDNEY MARKET, with the advantage of communication by steamers weekly, in addition to sailing vessels, it is an estate worthy particular attention from agriculturists seeking a first-class investment. It also affords a good opportunity to speculators, as it has a large frontage to the running waters of the Wyong, and would subdivide with great advantage into a number of small farms, all of which would find ready and eager purchasers.

SIR JOSEPH BANKS ESTATE,
BOTANY BAY,
including that noted popular Hotel,
THE SIR JOSEPH BANKS,
now in the occupation of Mr. William Beaumont, with about 22 acres of ornamental grounds extending and having a large frontage to the Bay; also,
YORK LODGE,
the residence of the proprietor, a remarkably neat Cottage Residence, with about 4 acres fronting the Bay adjoining the grounds attached to the hotel. The residue of the estate has been subdivided into of from 5 to 11 acres each, consisting mostly of the celebrated fresh water swamp land peculiar to the locality and adapted for garden cultivation.

The whole will be offered in one lot, or as subdivided to suit purchasers.

Title, grant from the Crown to the present vendor.
Terms—One-third cash; residue, liberal credit.
Plans may be inspected at the Rooms.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from Mr. Thomas Kellett to sell, by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on MONDAY, 16th September, at 11 o'clock,

The whole of that extensive and truly valuable property, the

SIR JOSEPH BANKS ESTATE,
BOTANY BAY,
subdivided as follows—

LOT 1.—SIR JOSEPH BANKS HOTEL and GROUNDS. This beautifully situated popular hostelrie is, for the most part, massively built of stone, and contains verandahs, balcony, hall, 10 rooms, large public room feet by feet, kitchen, bar, pantries, with yard and stabling, and every convenience either for a private residence, or for an hotel.

The grounds comprise an area of about 22 acres—the portion in front of the house sloping gradually down to the bay. They are laid out with great taste as lawn, garden planted with choice shrubs, flowers, and many valuable fruit trees, ornamental ponds, &c., divided from the beach by a shrubbery and avenue of lofty oak trees. On the beach is a jetty, extending to deep water, with a bathing-house at its termination.

 The Sir Joseph Banks Hotel is so well known, and has been so long appreciated by the public, that comment on the part of the vendor is nearly superfluous. It has for many years been under the superintendence and management of the present lessee, Mr. Beaumont, whose tenancy expires on the close of this year, and the worthy and able manner which he has conducted the establishment will be acknowledged by all.

It is situated on the north side of the bay, and is approached by a parish road from the city, being distant about 6 miles from the Post Office.

Few have visited this delightful spot without being vividly impressed with its many and singular beauties, and remarkably healthy position. Its sloping grassy lawns, the luxuriant parterres, sheltered by a belt of magnificent oaks from the ocean breeze, have long been a favourite resort, and will be remembered with pleasure by those who have rambled over the grounds. Fishing, shooting, yachting, seabathing, can all be enjoyed, and, at the same time, the visitor is only about an hour's drive from the city.

Possessing numerous advantages, and with a reputation unequalled by any other property of a similar character in New South Wales, Richardson and Wrench can with confidence direct to its sale the attention of capitalists and others both in this and neighbouring colonies, and recommend it as one of the most advantageous opportunities for investing capital that has occurred for some time back.

The house is most substantially erected and well finished, and is equally adapted for a gentleman's suburban seat as for what it has so long been famous, A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL. A few yards from the hotel there is a cottage of three rooms, which is occupied when a press of visitors renders it necessary.

LOT 2.—YORK LODGE.

A comfortable well-built and finished cottage residence, built on stone foundations of hardwood weatherboard, brick-nogged, plastered, and painted, containing verandah, four rooms, kitchen—attic above, yard, stables, fowlhouse, and other outoffices, together with about four acres of land adjoining the grounds attached to the hotel, laid out as garden and orchard, and having a large frontage to Botany Bay.

 This desirable and favourably-situated homestead is known as the residence of Mr. Kellett, the proprietor of the estate, and will be found worthy of inspection by those seeking a small suburban residence, with grounds enjoying all the advantages of this salubrious locality.

LOT 3.—EIGHT SMALL FARMS, containing each from 5 to 11 acres of valuable market garden land, being mostly rich fresh water swamp soil, of a nature alone adapted in this climate for the successful growth of vegetables.

 The whole of these farms are more or less improved with fences, drainage, or clearing, many having a large portion of the ground cleared, stumped, and cultivated. Their proximity to Sydney, and the reputation of their peculiar fertile nature is sufficient to attract the attention of gardeners and others.

☞ These valuable properties will be sold as a whole, o in lots as above, to suit the convenience of purchasers, and a large proportion of the purchase-money, if desired, can remain on the property at a low rate of interest. Thus favourably brought into the market, with the remunerative season before the purchaser, the auctioneers feel confident that capitalists will meet the proprietor in the same liberal manner, and that the repute and value of the Sir Joseph Banks Estate will attract the attention of many seeking a favourable opportunity for securing a most remunerative investment. Mr. Beaumont kindly offers to allow intending purchasers to inspect the premises, and the boundaries of the whole estate will be pointed out, on application to Mr. KELLETT, York Lodge.

For further particulars, apply at the Rooms.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from Mr. ARTHUR C. BAIRD to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on TUESDAY, 15th October next, at 11 o'clock,

The following well known first-class pastoral properties in the WELLINGTON DISTRICT,

LOT 1.—CUMBOOGLECUMBONG and CULLENBURREWANG STATIONS, consisting of open undulating country, with about 7 miles frontage to the Macquarie River, extending to Hyandra Creek. In addition to the River and Creek there are several large lagoons on the run.

These Stations are not surpassed by any in the district. They have very large carrying capabilities; they are always well grassed, watered, and their fattening qualities are beyond a doubt. Distance from Dubbo about six miles.

THE IMPROVEMENTS are extensive, and of a superior order. They comprise a recently erected well-finished house, with hall, and 4 rooms, detached kitchen, store, dairy, men's huts, large stockyard, with late improvements; cultivation paddock of about 10 acres; grass paddock 250 to 300 acres; garden and orchard of about 2 acres, all well and securely enclosed.

With these runs will be sold 800 HEAD OF CATTLE, more or less; a mixed herd.

This herd is a very good one, and there are a number of milkers, and a large proportion of bullocks and speyed cows.

 These stations were formerly the property of Mr. George Langley, and were among the early selections of the late Mr. William Lawson, and particular attention is directed to their very large carrying capabilities, whether for sheep or cattle, and the small number of stock now sold with them.

LOT 2. BELLERINGAR, or GARULE GARULE Stations, consisting of 6 blocks of splendid well watered and grassed plains and myall country, having about 10 miles frontage to the Belleringar Creek, and running about 20 miles back towards the Bogan. The stations are distant from Dubbo about 80 miles, and adjoin Mr. Lee's Tabratong runs.

The IMPROVEMENTS comprise a superior four-roomed cottage, large and convenient yards with spaying bail, swing gates, and all late improvements, garden enclosed with paling fence, men's huts, cellar, &c.

With the Belleringar Runs will be sold
2500 HEAD of WELL-BRED CATTLE, more or less; a mixed herd.

LOT 3 COGILDRIE, having about five miles frontage to the Bogan River, nearly adjoining the Belleringar Runs. It consists of good grazing country, and adjoins Corse's Runs.

The IMPROVEMENTS comprise yards, huts, &c.
With Cogildrie will be sold
700 HEAD of CATTLE, more or less; a mixed herd.

The cattle on these stations are well known to be quiet and well-bred, having been reared from the noted stocks of Messrs. Lawson, Rodd, Lee, Christy, and Wentworth. They have always borne a high character, and are second to none in the district.

LOT 4.—THE SPRINGS AND CHAIN PONDS Stations, situate about 17 miles from Dubbo, and about 26 miles from Wellington, adjoining the late Mr. Hyeronimus' Goonoo station, and Messrs. Cruickshank's Little River stations.

THE SPRINGS contains an area of about 20,000 acres, with a frontage of about 7 miles to Little River, extending to Paddy's River, consisting of well watered and thickly grassed country, suited for either cattle or sheep.

THE IMPROVEMENTS consist of the homestead, a capital dwelling-house of ten rooms, wood-lined and oil painted throughout, back and front verandahs, kitchen, store and cellar, a garden, orchard and vineyard, of about 1½ acre, a cultivation paddock of about 70 acres, a grass paddock of about 150 acres; stockyard with swing-gates; hay shed, 60 x 14; men's huts, &c.

CHAIN PONDS is a 3 miles square block of fine well-watered grazing country, about 9 miles from THE SPRINGS.

With these stations will be sold 800 HEAD OF CATTLE, more or less; a choice, mixed, well-bred, quiet herd.

☞ These unrivalled pastoral properties will be sold in lots to suit purchasers. They are familiar to those who are acquainted with the district as the stations of Messrs. Donald and Baird, and are now only sold in consequence of the late dissolution of partnership.

The situation could not be better, as it commands the southern markets as well as those of Sydney and the Western Goldfields.

The runs are well watered and of a fattening nature, with valuable improvements, and equally adapted for sheep as cattle. The stock are as well bred as any in the district.

The properties, whether as a whole or in separate lots, may be ranked as really desirable, conveniently situated, and superior

LUCAN PARK, WESTERN ROAD.

This well-known first-class Homestead and Farm, containing upwards of 175 acres, with Family Residence, standing Crop, and all improvements.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on MONDAY, 9th September, at 11 o'clock,

The improvements comprise a cottage residence of 6 rooms, 2 detached stores, kitchen with dairy and verandah, a stable with 4 stalls, barn, hay shed, and extensive garden, and orchard.

☞ The Lucan Park Estate enjoys such a reputation that, in announcing it for unreserved sale, it is scarcely necessary to make a single comment on its advantages as an agricultural property. The land for the most part consists of rich whinstone hills and alluvial flats, watered by a creek that never fails in any season.

The sale offers inducements which rarely occur to parties in search of a first-class country estate, all of which is available for cultivation, and most conveniently situated close to a railway station on the Parramatta and Penrith line, now hastening to completion. The improvements are all good, and intending purchasers are invited to inspect the property prior to the day of sale.

TERMS—One half of the purchase money may remain secured upon the property.

MORT and CO. have been instructed by JOHN WHITFORD, Esq., to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 11th September,
His very valuable property, known as the ROSEBROOK ESTATE, immediately opposite the town of Muswellbrook.
It consists of 229 ACRES, enclosed with a new, substantial three-rail fence and has rather more than HALF A MILE FRONTAGE to the RIVER HUNTER, on the right bank.
It is divided into six paddocks, and there are about 45 ACRES CLEARED and UNDER CULTIVATION, the growing crop of wheat upon which may be taken at a valuation.
ROSEBROOK HOUSE is a comfortable two-story family residence of nine rooms, with front verandah and balcony, and large basement used as cellar and dairy.
IT IS BUILT OF CUT STONE, the timber of colonial hardwood, with slated roof; the materials throughout being the very best, and the work executed regardless of cost.
THE OTHER IMPROVEMENTS comprise a four-stall stable and coachhouse, constructed of wood; also a large barn and stockyard, divided into three compartments, one of which is fitted with calf-pen and milking-bails for carrying on an extensive dairy. There is also an orchard of about two acres, planted with the choicest fruits, and in great variety.
☞ The attention of parties on the look-out for a choice country property is earnestly directed to this sale. The Rosebrook Estate is in most complete order, the improvements having all been made within the last three years under the direct inspection of the present proprietor.
The house stands on an elevated position, and commands an extensive view of the surrounding country. As a whole the property combines everything requisite for a DELIGHTFUL COUNTRY RESIDENCE, and a LARGE DAIRY and AGRICULTURAL ESTABLISHMENT. The land is very rich, and has yielded 35 bushels of wheat to the acre. The estate possesses a large prospective value from its proximity to the town of Muswellbrook, from the centre of which it is only divided by the river Hunter. Upon the property there is also a large quarry of the finest building stone, which has already furnished the stone used in the principal buildings in Muswellbrook.
MORT and CO. with confidence invite an inspection of the property prior to the sale.

MOORE CREEK,
Together with 6000 SHEEP, and 110 HEAD of CATTLE

In the driest seasons it will carry 14,000 sheep and 1000 head of cattle; but in such favourable seasons as we have latterly had, it is estimated that there is room for a much larger quantity of stock.
The IMPROVEMENTS consist of a seven-room verandah cottage, with cellar, stable, huts, large wool-shed, garden, planted with choice fruit trees, cultivation paddock, good substantial stockyard, with drafting yard, milk bails, calf-pen, and every requisite for carrying on a dairy; also hurdles for 10,000 sheep. This PROPERTY is so well known that any lengthened comment would be superfluous. It is within six miles of the town of Tamworth, where, as well as at the Hanging Rock, Oakenville, and Peel River diggings, there is a ready market for all produce and fat stock; indeed, a large portion of the expenses of the station might be paid from the dairy produce alone.

☞ This property now in the market for bona fide sale is well worth the attention of any small capitalist. Indeed, to any one living in the neighbourhood, and capable of supervising the property, it might be made one of the snuggest of freeholds in the city. The position within a few yards of George-street, and in one of the leading thoroughfares, commands for the houses at all times tenants at good rates. The attention of the working man is directed to this sale, as it is purposed to sell the houses either separately or in lots of two or three, as may be desired, and as a portion of the purchase money may remain secured upon the property, a very small amount of ready money is required to secure one or more of the cottages.

Butchers. Butchers. Butchers.

MR. W. FULLAGAR has received instructions from Mr. Thomas S. Hall, to sell, at his Yards, Western Road, on MONDAY next, the 2nd of September, at 12 o'clock, 142 head of prime fat cattle, in lots to suit purchasers.

To Squatters, Capitalists, Speculators, and others, who may be desirous of embarking in the purchase of first-class Stations.

Magnificent Fattening Stations, known as Goorarmin, East and West, and Ballingarry, or Ninghan, situate on the Moonie River, in the rising Colony of Queensland; together with A superior Herd of about 6000 Head of quiet Cattle,—to be mustered.

Terms, liberal.
One third of the purchase price to be paid down, in cash, into the hands of the Auctioneer, upon the fall of the hammer; the remainder in three equal payments, at one, two, and three years' date from day of sale, by approved promissory notes, with eight per cent. per annum interest added, and security by mortgage upon the stock and stations.

MR. THOMAS CADELL has received instructions from the proprietor, Duncan F. Mackay, Esq., Moonie River, to sell by auction, at the Northumberland Hotel, West Maitland, on THURSDAY, 19th September, at 12 o'clock,
All those well-known, excellent, fattening stations, Goorarmin, East and West, with Ballingarry, or Ninghan, situate on the Moonie River, in the colony of Queensland, having a frontage to the west side of the Moonie of ten miles, and a frontage of about eleven miles to the east side of the same river, and extending back about twenty-five miles on each side of the river, thus forming an almost unlimited back country, capable of depasturing in all seasons 6000 head of cattle, or upwards of 30,000 sheep.

The country consists principally of level salt bush forests and plains, thickly grassed, with herbage of excellent fattening quality. These stations are permanently watered, and the supply has never been known to fail, even in the driest seasons. The back country is also watered by holes, most of which, at a trifling outlay, could be made to hold a permanent supply, which would allow this portion of the run to be fully stocked with sheep, for which it is peculiarly adapted. The above stations adjoin Indigully on the north, well known as the property of Otto Baldwin, Esq.; and Bullamil and Mr. Bowman's Guningdie on the south.
The improvements comprise two good station huts, and several yards on various portions of the runs. The main yards at the head station are very complete, and are capable of working 4000 head of cattle.
With the above splendid Runs will be sold,
6000 head (more or less) of quiet cattle, principally aged from two to five years, and among which are a number of spayed cows; which cattle will be mustered and delivered to the purchaser. 12 stock horses, and stores, given in.
The above splendid stations and stock are in the market for bona fide sale. And will be submitted to public competition in consequence of the proprietor intending to remove to the Burdekin, where he is forming extensive sheep stations.
The proprietor has resided upon these runs for years, and consequently the herd has been always kept well worked; and it may be safely asserted, that the cattle now offered for sale are fully equal to any herd in the Northern Districts. The splendid drafts of fat cattle often seen in this market will give an idea of the quality of the country and cattle.
All the rough cattle have been lately cleared off, and sold for boiling purposes; while any older cattle of an inferior description have been sent to the Victorian market, and a good proportion of old cows spayed.
There are a large lot of quiet milking cattle, the progeny of which are principally from well-bred bulls, from the A. A. Company's, and Messrs. Reynolds', Loder's, and Baldwin's herds—a large number of which have been placed upon the stations during the last few years.
As some guarantee that the herd has been well attended to—weather permitting, nearly the whole of the herd can be mustered and delivered in a month.
There are about 500 head of very superior heifers upon the station, for a large number of which the proprietor has refused £4 per head.

The auctioneer begs to call the especial attention of capitalists and others in this and the adjacent colonies to the above stations, and feels satisfied that no necessity exists for saying anything farther than that the above properties are for positive sale, and that intending purchasers are particularly requested to visit the runs, and the proprietor upon the stations will point out the boundaries, and give the fullest information.
The auctioneer is perfectly satisfied that if the runs are inspected they will be found in no way inferior to the foregoing description.
The auctioneer will be happy to furnish further particulars, upon application being made to his address, West Maitland.

Sweet form, that on my dreamy gaze	Take this cup of sparkling wine
As in the cup
My home, my heart's first home	Gentle troubadour
	A father's love
Peace to the mem'ry of the brave	Sad as my soul
	Come away to the chase.
Love, transient passion
